Goldwater Sees Trouble For Nixon

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — If Republican conservatives are sliding away from former Vice President Richard M. Nixon toward California Gov. Ronald Reagan for the party's 1968 presidential nomination, Barry Goldwater is not doing anything to stop them.

Goldwater, at a news conference during the Young Republican National Federation Convention, suggested Wednesday that Reagan and Nixon sit down together soon. He said they should chart their courses to avoid a political collision that might permit a moderate like Michigan Gov. George Romney to be nominated.

The 1964 GOP presidential nominee said that while he is committed to Nixon, he and other conservatives would back Reagan "with everything we've got" if Nixon is eliminated as a contestant.

Goldwater indicated in an interview he fears Nixon may run into trouble in presidential primaries, particularly those in which potential candidates can be entered without their consent.

"I wish he could stay out of all the primaries, but I guess he can't," Goldwater said.

Reagan has indicated he expects to be California's favorite son candidate and will not withdraw his name from free-for-all primaries where it is entered.

Goldwater's credentials as still the spokesman for a large group of party conservatives were demonstrated when he got a rousing, chanting, "We want Barry," welcome at an appearance before the Young Republican Federation which conservatives have dominated since 1963.

One sign read: "Barry, you will always be our hero."

Goldwater's message to the group was not to let themselves be so submerged by the senior party organization that they have no voice in GOP affairs.

Among delegates there has been considerable hoopla for Reagan and Romney, with not a Nixon hat or banner in sight.

Goldwater reiterated his theme that Romney had a right to choose not to support him actively in 1964, but said he doesn't know how much backing Romney should expect now from those who campaigned for the 1964 national ticket.

But Goldwater added he thinks President Johnson has better than an even chance of beating any Republican opponent. He added that as a third party candidate, former Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama might contribute heavily toward this result.

Goldwater said Johnson's political position has been bolstered because the Vietnam war is going better, economic signs look good and because the president acted commendably in the Middle East crisis.

"The people are thinking that when the chips are down, this fellow produces," he said. "You can't beat men like that."

Fairbanks Hit By 7 Quakes

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — Residents were sweeping up, mopping floors, and repairing broken glass today in the wake of seven earthquakes that rocked this area Wednesday.

It was the worst shaking this inland Alaska city has felt in three decades, but did not approach the devastation caused by the March 1964 earthquake in the Anchorage area.

There were no reports of injuries here but some structural damage was reported in the state court building and at the Alaska 67 centennial exposition grounds.

Seismograph stations in Alaska and Washington State rated the three heaviest shocks at an intensity of 6.7 to 7 on the Richter scale. The 1964 Good Friday tremor measured 8.3, strongest recorded in North America.

Hospital Board Has 1st Session With New Exec

Berger Hospital's Board of Governors met officially for the first time Wednesday evening with the city-county hospital's new administrator, James D. Stambaugh.

Stambaugh, who replaces Charles Beard at the administrative post, was hired last month during a special session upon recommendation of his predecessor.

A native of Omaha, Neb., the new administrator comes to the Berger office from Grant Hospital, Columbus, where he served as director of public relations for the past six years.

JAMES D. STAMBAUGH

He and his wife, Ortha, are currently residing in Worthington and are making plans to locate here following the wedding of a daughter on July 8. They have two other daughters and two sons.

Stambaugh has served as professional executive for the Boy Scouts of America at Wheeling, W. Va., and Akron, O.; was personnel manager for the Lehr Iron and Steel Co., at Akron; and was public relations manager for the Columbus Hospital Federation.

A spectator sports enthusiast, Stambaugh enjoys wood carving (he calls it whittling), reading, gardening and working on "old clocks."

Mrs. Stambaugh is an avid supporter of the theater. She has a master's degree in speech and dramatics and has directed plays at Otterbein College and the Players Club and was one of the founders of the Village Players in Toledo.

Members of the Board of Governors became more acquainted with their new administrator at last night's regular monthly session.

During the course of the meeting, Stambaugh suggested that the position of purchasing agent be created for the hospital. He noted the need for keeping a closer check on the payment of bills, purchases etc.

Stambaugh said that every purchase for the hospital should be authorized by one individual in addition to the payment of bills.

No action was taken on the new administrator's proposal. It is to be studied by the house committee and members of the board.

In other action, board members scheduled a tentative date in July for the annual Pin Award Dinner for employees of the hospital.

Authorization was granted for an increase in the radiology department. In most cases, a $5 increase will become effective July 1. Following a study, the new rates for X-rays etc., will place Berger on a near-parity basis with Columbus hospitals for the same type of service.

Frank Ad on Flying Fear Scared People Even More

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The new advertising campaign, for an airline at least, was a shocker.

"Hey there, you with the sweat on your palms," it started.

"It's about time an airline faced up to something: Most people are scared witless of flying."

The gamble was taken May 28 by Pacific Air Lines at the suggestion of Stan Freberg, Hollywood advertising writer and humorist. Many old-time airline ad men shuddered.

Today it appears the startling frankness has failed.

The Los Angeles Times said Freberg's campaign apparently has been grounded and Pacific Air Lines itself may soon disappear as a corporate entity.

Officials of the airline based in San Francisco confirmed

Wednesday that its president, Matthew E. McCarthy, has resigned and that it is being merged into West Coast Airlines Inc. of Seattle. A spokesman for West Coast Airlines said his company will become the survivor.

The newspaper said financial difficulties faced by Pacific Air Lines may have accounted for its advertising gamble.

Freberg's ad campaign included a rabbit's foot given air passengers, along with a cuddling blanket, a copy of the book, "The Power of Positive Thinking," and "survival kits."

Nick Bez Jr., vice president of West Coast Airlines and assistant to his father, the president, said Wednesday he didn't like the "sweaty palms" campaign.

"I find very little in the concept that has merit or fits in with a marketing plan," Bez said. "No one in the industry liked it, and it was harmful to Pacific. It scared people away from the airline. We don't like to do those things."

No top official of Pacific Air Lines would comment directly on the campaign. A former vice president said the airline has "held up" the advertising and is trying to sell back the rabbits feet and blankets to distributors.

Freberg said he was approached initially by McCarthy who told him the airline needed "a fresh approach."

"If they don't plan to go ahead exactly as I planned, I resign, here and now," Freberg said.

His campaign ahead, he added, included painting a Pacific jetliner black like a locomotive and installing whistles and other train noises so the passengers would think they're taking a train instead of a plane.

Western Electric To Expand Plant

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Western Electric Co.'s Columbus works has announced it will build two three-story wings at its plant to increase the size of the present plant by 70 percent with occupancy scheduled for early 1970.

The plant will hire an additional 1,000 workers for its laboratories over the next few years, company officials said. Currently the plant employs 7,010-6,600 with Western Electric and 410 in the Bell Telephone Laboratories.

Yank Forces Kill 143 Reds In 2 Battles

Jets Again Bomb North Vietnam Rails, Factories

SAIGON (AP) — U. S. forces reported killing 143 Communist troops in two battles in the central lowlands Wednesday while waves of U. S. jets ranged over a wide area to pound North Vietnam's rail network and its biggest iron and steel works.

American casualties in the lowlands battles 300 miles north of Saigon were six dead, 22 wounded and four missing, the U. S. Command said. It said there was light, scattered contact in 21 other U. S. and allied ground operations.

With good weather prevailing, U. S. Air Force and Navy pilots flew 133 missions against the Communist North. They hammered 11 railroad yards and rail lines from the demilitarized zone to more than 50 miles above Hanoi.

The attacks on the rail network were a continuation of a two-month-old campaign against Hanoi's rail routes. U.S. planes raided the Thai Nguyen steel works north of Hanoi for the eighth time, and a U. S. spokesman said an Air Force RF101 reconnaissance plane was shot down, the 587th U. S. combat plane reported lost over North Vietnam. The pilot was rescued.

Hanoi Radio claimed three U.S. planes were shot down Wednesday, including two pilotless reconnaissance craft.

The U. S. Command announced that 143 Americans were killed in combat last week, the lowest for any week since early February. American casualties for the week totaled 1,112 — seven less than the week before — and included 953 wounded and 16 missing.

The U. S. Command reported a big jump in Communist dead, from 1,155 the week before to 1,852. The South Vietnamese government reported 213 of its troops killed last week, 556 wounded and 14 missing, compared with 215 killed, 496 wounded and 38 missing the week before.

U. S. troops from the 3rd Brigade, 25th Infantry Division, reported they suffered no casualties in one of the ground battles Wednesday eight miles southeast of coastal Quang Ngai City.

The U. S. Command said 70 Communist troops were killed in the 90-minute fight, but only one weapon was captured. The Army said helicopter gunships firing machine guns and rockets accounted for 51 of the dead.

South of Quang Ngai, in neighboring Binh Dinh Province, a company from the 1st Cavalry Airmobile Division ran into an estimated battalion of Communist troops, perhaps 300 to 400 men, in well fortified positions.

Two other companies were rushed in while jet bombers and artillery pounded the Communist positions. The U. S. infantrymen reported 73 Communist troops killed in the day-long battle, while American casualties were six dead, 22 wounded and four missing.

Auto Occupants Rescued from Licking River

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — A mother and her two children, occupants of a car which rolled into the Licking River north of here Wednesday noon, were rescued promptly by a crew of the Ohio Power Co. who saw the accident from a nearby roadside lunch table.

Mrs. Richard Walker of Utica had stopped her car on Waterworks Road to discipline one of her children for putting his head out of an open window when the car started to roll forward. She told authorities she became excited and pushed on the accelerator instead of the brake.

The car plunged into the river and the mother managed to open a door and reach the surface. The Ohio Power Co. crewmen, Fred Loughman, Ron Claypool, Donald Smith, Ed McHenry and Derwin Albaugh, all of the Newark area, saw the mother and four of them swam out to the auto bobbing on the surface. They rescued the children Ricky, 5, and Debbie, 3, from the rear seat and the mother managed to swim to shore.

LBJ-Kosygin Confab Still Not Ruled Out

France Says Vietnam War Behind Mess

No Peace Chance In Middle East While It Persists

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — France declared today that as long as the war in Vietnam continues there is "no chance for peace in the Middle East."

French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville, in his nation's policy statement in the General Assembly debate on the Arab-Israeli war, said that ending war in Vietnam would "require a courageous and far-reaching decision on the part of a great state" — meaning the United States.

Should the Vietnamese war end, he said, "then new horizons would open up."

Neither Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin nor Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko was present to hear the French statement.

They were at the Soviet mission, preparing to be hosts at a luncheon to U.N. Secretary-General U Thant, and perhaps waiting for a break on the possibility of a Kosygin meeting with President Johnson.

The French foreign minister's statement was mild in tone. He avoided the direct condemnation of Israel that had highlighted a statement Wednesday by President Charles de Gaulle. And he appealed for a negotiated settlement of the Middle East crisis, which he repeatedly called grave and dangerous to world peace.

For the Arabs, De Gaulle said Israel started the war and France does not consider any Israeli territorial gains to be final. For the Israelis, he said every Middle East state, "notably Israel," has a right to live and he condemned the Arab threat to destroy the Jewish state.

In the General Assembly Wednesday, Israel quickly rejected Britain's warning not to claim all of Jerusalem as a prize of war.

British Foreign Secretary George Brown declared Israel would isolate itself from Old Jerusalem wrested from Jordan. Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban replied that his government had expressed determination to see that Jerusalem would never again become a divided city and a war arena.

"Our policy is the preservation of the unity of Jerusalem, the elevation of its cultural and religious life and free access to its holy places," he said.

Jordan seized the Old City in the 1948-49 Palestine war and barred Jews from their holy places in it.

At least 17 other persons were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct as about 25 Mansfield policemen were called out to reinforce Richland County sheriff's deputies at the scene.

Scope of Defeat Dawns on Egypt

EDITOR'S NOTE — AP Correspondent Dennis Neeld went to Cairo soon after Egyptian forces began massing in the Sinai Desert. He remained in the Egyptian capital through the Arab-Israeli war and has just gone to Athens, where he filed this report on conditions in Cairo.

By DENNIS NEELD

ATHENS (AP) — President Gamal Abdel Nasser has largely succeeded so far in hiding from the Egyptian people the magnitude of Egypt's military defeat in the Sinai Desert.

But slowly the word is spreading. Troops have returned from the battlefield with tales of rout and horror. More and more families are being notified that their sons will never come back.

Cairo Radio and the government press maintain a steady drumfire of propaganda telling Egyptians it is only a matter of time before the lost territories are recovered.

There have been calls for a "people's war" and suggestions for arming the civilian population against Israel.

"We have lost a battle," say the commentators, "but we have not lost the war."

Bitter attacks on the United States and Britain continue. Only American and British planes enabled the Israelis to push back the Egyptian army, it claims the Israelis still had to resort to such weapons as napalm to secure a victory. Most Egyptians have swallowed the story.

If they needed a scapegoat nearer home they had a group of generals that Nasser fired in the war's wake.

Egyptians were stunned when told the country had agreed to a cease-fire and Nasser's prestige was at its lowest ebb. But he fought back with skill.

LSD Bill Signed By Governor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An act to control LSD and other hallucinatory drugs to be effective Sept. 20, was signed into law Wednesday by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

The new law makes the first offense of possession of LSD a misdemeanor, subject to a maximum fine of $1,000 and a year in jail, but subsequent violations and first offenses of sale or manufacture of the drug could result in stiffer penalties as high as life imprisonment.

Prestige Is Main Issue Behind Stall

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — President Johnson and Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin may decide today whether to hold a summit meeting. Kosygin's stay in the United States was drawing to a close, and Wednesday night their foreign ministers left the final decision to their two chiefs.

This became known after a three-hour dinner meeting between U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko at Rusk's suite in the Waldorf Towers.

Rusk and Gromyko dealt with summit possibilities in a discussion which also ranged over the U.N. General Assembly special session on the Middle East and other unspecified items of U.S.-Soviet interest.

Gromyko told newsmen afterward that Kosygin would be returning to Moscow soon but probably not before Friday.

Since Johnson had a heavy schedule in Washington today, it appeared unlikely that even a brief Big Two parley could take place until Friday or later. Some expected Kosygin would stay in New York until the end of the week.

One possible indication of a Johnson-Kosygin meeting came Wednesday when the White House announced that Prime Minister Jens Otto Krag of Denmark would see the President in Washington today instead of Friday, as previously scheduled.

Whether the government chiefs of the two superpowers would meet at all remained very much an open question. The White House insisted Wednesday that no arrangements had been made.

The issue has become tied to questions of policy and prestige, with Kosygin against journeying from New York to Washington (Continued on Page 2)

A Solstice Happening:

Flower Children Greet Summer of Love's Advent

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Flower Children climbed a mountain, swarmed a polo field and crowded a beach to welcome the arrival of their "summer of love."

"This is a kishna, an Indian ceremony," one explained. "This draws energy by clearing one's state of mind."

Nearby, a youth with hair hanging over his face ardently kissed a blonde.

The gathering ran the gamut of garb — miniskirts, shawls, black leather jackets, even a male wrapped in the royal purple of a Chinese Mandarin coat. Most of the males dangled bead necklaces. And everywhere were the paper flowers.

One squatting couple shielded a flickering candle from the wind with a sack, while they sipped wine from a silver chalice.

Grownups blew bubbles, while their children romped.

At the beach Wednesday night the moonlight ceremony focused on a 63-year-old witch.

"She's freaking out a few people," a hippie told a bystander. "Freak out?"

"Well," replied the hippie, fumbling for words, "that means blow out a few minds."

That's how summer came to Twin Peaks.

U. S. troops from the 3rd Brigade, 25th Infantry Division, reported they suffered no casualties in one of the ground battles Wednesday eight miles southeast of coastal Quang Ngai City.

The U. S. Command said 70 Communist troops were killed in the 90-minute fight, but only one weapon was captured. The Army said helicopter gunships firing machine guns and rockets accounted for 51 of the dead.

South of Quang Ngai, in neighboring Binh Dinh Province, a company from the 1st Cavalry Airborne Division ran into an estimated battalion of Communist troops, perhaps 300 to 400 men, in well fortified positions.

Two other companies were rushed in while jet bombers and artillery pounded the Communist positions. The U. S. infantrymen reported 73 Communist troops killed in the day-long battle, while American casualties were six dead, 22 wounded and four missing.

The newspaper said financial difficulties faced by Pacific Air Lines may have accounted for its advertising gamble.

Freberg's ad campaign included a rabbit's foot given air passengers, along with a cuddling blanket, a copy of the book, "The Power of Positive Thinking," and "survival kits."

Nick Bez Jr., vice president of West Coast Airlines and assistant to his father, the president, said Wednesday he didn't like the "sweaty palms" campaign.

"I find very little in the concept that has merit or fits in with a marketing plan," Bez said.

"No one in the industry liked it, and it was harmful to Pacific. It scared people away from the airline. We don't like to do those things."

No top official of Pacific Air Lines would comment directly on the campaign. A former vice president said the airline has "held up" the advertising and is trying to sell back the rabbits feet and blankets to distributors.

Freberg said he was approached initially by McCarthy who told him the airline needed "a fresh approach."

"If they don't plan to go ahead exactly as I planned, I resign, here and now," Freberg said.

His campaign ahead, he added, included painting a Pacific jetliner black like a locomotive and installing whistles and other train noises so the passengers would think they're taking a train instead of a plane.

Western Electric To Expand Plant

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Western Electric Co.'s Columbus works has announced it will build two three-story wings at its plant to increase the size of the present plant by 70 per cent with occupancy scheduled for early 1970.

The plant will hire an additional 1,000 workers for its laboratories over the next few years, company officials said. Currently the plant employs 7,010-6,600 with Western Electric and 410 in the Bell Telephone Laboratories.

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — A mother and her two children, occupants of a car which rolled into the Licking River north of here Wednesday noon, were rescued promptly by a crew of the Ohio Power Co. who saw the accident from a nearby roadside lunch table.

Mrs. Richard Walker of Utica had stopped her car on Waterworks Road to discipline one of her children for putting his head out of an open window then the car started to roll forward. She told authorities she became excited and pushed on the accelerator instead of the brake.

France Says Vietnam War Behind Mess

No Peace Chance In Middle East While It Persists

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — France declared today that as long as the war in Vietnam continues there is "no chance for peace in the Middle East."

French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville, in his national policy statement in the General Assembly debate on the Arab-Israeli war, said that ending war in Vietnam would "require a courageous and far-reaching decision on the part of a great state" — meaning the United States.

Should the Vietnamese war end, he said, "then new horizons would open up."

Neither Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin nor Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko was present to hear the French statement.

They were at the Soviet mission, preparing to be hosts at a luncheon to U.N. Secretary-General U. Thant, and perhaps waiting for a break on the possibility of a Kosygin meeting with President Johnson.

The French foreign minister's statement was mild in tone. He avoided the direct condemnation of Israel that had highlighted a statement Wednesday by President Charles de Gaulle. And he appealed for a negotiated settlement of the Middle East crisis, which he repeatedly called grave and dangerous to world peace.

For the Arabs, De Gaulle said Israel started the war and France does not consider any Israeli territorial gains to be final. For the Israelis, he said every Middle East state, "notably Israel," has a right to live and he condemned the Arab threat to destroy the Jewish state.

In the General Assembly Wednesday, Israel quickly rejected Britain's warning not to claim all of Jerusalem as a prize of war.

British Foreign Secretary George Brown declared Israel would isolate itself from world opinion if it held onto Old Jerusalem wrested from Jordan. Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban replied that his government had expressed determination to see that Jerusalem would never again become a divided city and a war arena.

"Our policy is the preservation of the unity of Jerusalem, the elevation of its cultural and religious life and free access to its holy places," he said.

Jordan seized the Old City in the 1948-49 Palestine war and barred Jews from their holy places in it.

The Vatican weekly L'Osservatore Romano said the city was "a city of peace."

Bitter attacks on the United States and Britain continued. Only American and British planes enabled the Israelis to push back the Egyptian army, maintains the government. And it claims the Israelis still had to resort to such weapons as napalm to secure a victory. Most Egyptians have swallowed the story.

If they needed a scapegoat nearer home they had a group of generals that Nasser fired in the war's wake.

Scope of Defeat Dawns on Egypt

By DENNIS NEELD
ATHENS (AP) — President Gamal Abdel Nasser has largely succeeded so far in hiding from the Egyptian people the magnitude of Egypt's military defeat in the Sinai Desert.

But slowly the word is spreading. Troops have returned from the battlefield with tales of rout and horror. More and more families are being notified that their sons will never come back.

Cairo Radio and the government press maintain a steady drumfire of propaganda telling Egyptians it is only a matter of time before the lost territories are recovered.

There have been calls for a "people's war" and suggestions for arming the civilian population against Israel.

"We have lost a battle," say the commentators, "but we have not lost the war."

Prestige Is Main Issue Behind Stall

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — President Johnson and Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin may decide today whether to hold a summit meeting. Kosygin's stay in the United States was drawing to a close, and Wednesday night their foreign ministers left the final decision to their two chiefs.

This became known after a three-hour dinner meeting between U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko at Rusk's suite in the Waldorf Towers.

Rusk and Gromyko dealt with summit possibilities in a discussion which also ranged over the U.N. General Assembly special session on the Middle East and other unspecified items of U.S.-Soviet interest.

Gromyko told newsmen afterward that Kosygin would be returning to Moscow soon but probably not before Friday.

Since Johnson had a heavy schedule in Washington today, it appeared unlikely that even a brief Big Two parley could take place until Friday or later. Some expected Kosygin would stay in New York until the end of the week.

One possible indication of a Johnson-Kosygin meeting came Wednesday when the White House announced that Prime Minister Jens Otto Krag of Denmark would see the President in Washington today instead of Friday, as previously scheduled.

Whether the government chiefs of the two superpowers would meet at all remained very much an open question. The White House insisted Wednesday that no arrangements had been made.

The issue has become tied to questions of policy and prestige, with Kosygin against journeying from New York to Washington (Continued on Page 2)

Identi-Kit Training Aids Police in Forgery Probe

A newly acquired skill by Ptl. Jack Mills led to the arrest Wednesday of a woman on a charge of check forgery.

A composite drawing was made with the police "identi-kit" from the descriptions given Ptl. Mills by employees of stores where bad checks were cashed.

Positive identification from the composite was made by three persons who received the checks.

Monday the Savings Bank returned checks to Super Duper, Risch's, Big Bear and Lutz's Market totaling $64. The name of Ruth Jackson appeared on three of the checks and Ruth Moore was the name on the fourth according to Police reports. There was no account in either name.

MRS. Sue Hunt, an employee of Super Duper, was called to give a description of the woman issuing the checks. Ptl. Mills then constructed the composite from the details given by Mrs. Hunt.

In Cairo, cheering crowds greeted Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny as he arrived Wednesday for a meeting with President Gamal Abdel Nasser which was sent as a further demonstration of Moscow's support for the Arab cause.

Podgorny was preceded by Marshal Matvei V. Zakharov, chief of staff of the Soviet armed forces. Restoration of Egypt's arsenal shattered by Israeli forces during the lightning war was believed high on the agenda of Soviet-Egyptian talks.

Informed sources in Moscow said the Soviet government has promised to replace without great cost the store of Soviet arms lost to Israel in the war. There have been reports from Washington and Cairo that Soviet arms are already arriving in the Egyptian capital, but they could be part of a consignment in the process of delivery when the war broke out.

Official in Washington said the United States is considering steps to help Jordan, which apparently was the biggest loser in the war. The officials said economic assistance to King Hussein must come soon to bolster Jordan's ruler, who is considered the best friend the United States has in the Arab world.

The United States is in no hurry to rearm Hussein, the sources said, but they added that this, too, must be done eventually to prevent the Soviet Union from becoming the exclusive arms source for the Arab world.

The State Department lifted its June 5 restriction on American travel to Israel and the Arab countries of Morocco, Tunisia, Saudi Arabia and Kuwait. But restrictions remained on travel to nine other Arab states—in Egypt, Algeria, Iraq, Jordan, Lebanon, Libya, Sudan, Syria, and Yemen.

U.S. citizens are required to obtain special passport endorsement from the State Department for visits to those nations.

the war. The demonstration was undoubtedly stage-managed but the wave of pro-Nasser emotion seemed largely genuine.

The loudspeakers, which only days ago echoed round the sun-baked squares of Cairo with martial music and prophecies of imminent victory, are muted now. The "on to Tel Aviv" banners are gone.

Today the commentators speak of preparations and sacrifices to be made before a "second round" can be fought. Few Egyptians believe a peaceful settlement with Israel is possible and few seem to want one. They believe that for Nasser to sit at a conference table with Israeli leaders is inconceivable.

Already Egyptians are feeling the pinch. Meat and other food is scarce. Couples have been asked to give up their wedding rings to replenish the country's gold reserves.

Harder times probably are ahead. With the Suez Canal closed, the flow of tourists at an end, Egypt's hard currency earnings have all but dried up. It is surviving on Soviet hand-outs.

The outskirts of Cairo are jammed with troops. Columns of heavy tanks lie just off the main road to the airport. MIG jets scream overhead.

The show of strength may be a precaution against a possible coup by disgruntled military elements but there is no evidence of any great disenchantment with the man who has led Egypt for 13 years.

There are signs meanwhile that Egypt, with Russian help, is already rebuilding its military forces. Big Soviet transport planes have been streaming into Cairo airport, reportedly with crated MIG fighters to replace those destroyed by Israeli bombing raids.

Diplomatic observers, however, discount that Nasser plans to reopen the shooting war against Israel within the foreseeable future.

Nasser more likely pins his hopes on diplomatic maneuvering to regain his lost territories. Arab oil and the Suez Canal are the bargaining weapons he hopes to use against the West to pressure Israel into withdrawing.

Paint Creek Project Low Bid Received

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—An apparent low bid of $2,548,628 for additional work at a Paint Creek, Ohio, reservoir project has been submitted to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The engineers reported Wednesday the bid was submitted by R. E. Dailey & Co. of Detroit, Mich. The work involves construction of outlet works at the Paint Creek Dam and Reservoir.

to call on Johnson and vice versa.

The problem of a meeting place arose soon after Kosygin arrived last Saturday to spearhead the Soviet drive for a U.N. demand that Israel withdraw from the territory it occupied in the Middle East war. Kosygin in his U.N. speech also hit at U.S. policy in the Middle East and elsewhere.

Johnson invited the Soviet leader to visit him in Washington or nearby. Kosygin said he was on a visit to the United Nations rather than to the United States as such but left the door open for Johnson to come see him.

Since the U.S. government considers the U.N. session a Kremlin maneuver to curry favor with the Arabs, Johnson was reported opposed to lending his prestige to the assembly session or making what appeared to be a pilgrimage to Kosygin.

Kosygin presumably did not want to risk Arab wrath by appearing to make a pilgrimage to Johnson or seeming too friendly with him. The Arabs charge the United States with aiding Israel in the war.

But there was pressure on both leaders to demonstrate by at least a token meeting that the two great powers are not about to plunge the world into a new cold war or worse.

If they do meet, they thus are likely to do so mainly for the publicity value. Top-level talks on basic international issues usually make little headway without careful advance preparation, and there has been virtually no time for such preparation in this case.

Rusk and Gromyko normally cover the broad range of East-West questions in private talks during General Assembly sessions. Their meeting Wednesday night was their first such session, and whether they would meet again was left uncertain. Rusk planned to return to Washington late Friday.

Sen. Dodd Still Hopes To Escape

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Thomas J. Dodd says he's confident his colleagues will reject a resolution censuring him despite overwhelming defeat of a bid to wipe out one set of charges against the Connecticut Democrat.

The Senate, in its first vote after seven days of debate, rejected 92 to 2 Wednesday a proposal for dropping charges of financial misconduct in connection with campaign and testimonial funds, and substituting an admonishment not to do anything wrong in the future.

Dodd, excused from voting at his own request, said the lopsided vote didn't discourage him.

The white-haired, two-term senator told newsmen later he has "complete confidence" in the final outcome because: "I have been guilty of no conscious wrongdoing."

Expected today are the show-down votes on the two counts in the censure resolution recommended by the Senate ethics committee following a 14-month probe of Dodd's financial affairs.

political testimonials and similar events to his own use. The second accuses the senator of double-billing the Senate and private groups for travel expenses. Each is to be voted on separately.

Only Sen. Russell B. Long — author of the proposed substitute resolution — and Dodd's fellow Connecticut Democrat, Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, voted for it in the late-Wednesday balloting.

Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., of the bipartisan ethics committee, called the substitute resolution "a ridiculous thing."

"This doesn't say anything," Stennis told the Senate. "It is just a lot of words. It is double-talk."

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, the ethics panel vice chairman, warned acceptance of the watered-down version would make the Senate a laughing stock.

Long, D-La., Dodd's self-appointed defender, conceded his proposal was mild. But he said Dodd deserves nothing more severe.

Dodd said the real question was: "Have I got the dough or not? And I don't have it. If I did I'd get out."

Dodd obtained permission to leave the Senate chamber while the roll was called, saying he didn't want his presence to embarrass his colleagues. His wife and members of their family also withdrew from the gallery, where they have occupied front-row seats throughout the first seven days of debate.

After the vote, Ribicoff issued a statement saying he was "filled with compassion for Tom Dodd and his family."

"I have searched my conscience and my heart and cannot find it there to do them special hurt by voting for the censure of my colleague," he said.

Ribicoff, who faces re-election next year, has been regarded as a spot politically with a vote either way likely to cost him support. Dodd's current term expires in 1970.

Hocking Airport Bid Is Too High

LOGAN, O.—The lone bid submitted for construction of a Hocking County airport exceeded the engineers' estimate by almost $10,000.

The bid of the Engle Construction Co. of McArthur was $153,560.52, as compared to the engineers estimate of $143,977.16. The company also submitted an alternate bid which would save $5,500.81 in material.

Hocking County's airport status is now questionable according to Ned Cochran, chairman of the airport authority and county commissioners.

Hocking Commissioners agree the county could not be obligated to the extent of $53,000. For the $100,000 grant from the state to be approved, contract to build must be let by the end of the month.

Identi-Kit Training Aids Police in Forgery Probe

A newly acquired skill by Ptl. Jack Mills led to the arrest Wednesday of a woman on a charge of check forgery.

A composite drawing was made with the police "Identi-Kit" from the descriptions given Ptl. Mills by employees of stores where bad checks were cashed.

Positive identification from the composite was made by three persons who received the checks.

Monday the Savings Bank returned checks to Super Duper, Risch's, Big Bear and Lutz's Market totaling $64. The name of Ruth Jackson appeared on three of the checks and Ruth Moore was the name on the fourth according to Police reports. There was no account in either name.

MRS. Sue Hunt, an employee of Super Duper, was called to give a description of the woman issuing the checks. Ptl. Mills then constructed the composite from the details given by Mrs. Hunt.

vatore della Domenica suggested that the United Nations become custodian of Moslem, Christian and Jewish holy places in Jerusalem.

In Cairo, cheering crowds greeted Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny as he arrived Wednesday for a meeting with President Gamal Abdel Nasser which was sent as a further demonstration of Moscow's support for the Arab cause.

Podgorny was preceded by Marshal Matvei V. Zakharov, chief of staff of the Soviet armed forces. Restoration of Egypt's arsenal shattered by Israeli forces during the lightning war was believed high on the agenda of Soviet-Egyptian talks.

Informed sources in Moscow said the Soviet government has promised to replace without great cost the store of Soviet arms lost to Israel in the war. There have been reports from Washington and Cairo that Soviet arms are already arriving in the Egyptian capital, but they could be part of a consignment in the process of delivery when the war broke out.

Official in Washington said the United States is considering steps to help Jordan, which apparently was the biggest loser in the war. The officials said economic assistance to King Hussein must come soon to bolster Jordan's ruler, who is considered the best friend the United States has in the Arab world.

The United States is in no hurry to rearm Hussein, the sources said, but they added that this, too, must be done eventually to prevent the Soviet Union from becoming the exclusive arms source for the Arab world.

The State Department lifted its June 5 restriction on American travel to Israel and the Arab countries of Morocco, Tunisia, Saudi Arabia and Kuwait. But restrictions remained on travel to nine other Arab states—in Egypt, Algeria, Iraq, Jordan, Lebanon, Libya, Sudan, Syria, and Yemen.

U.S. citizens are required to obtain special passport endorsement from the State Department for visits to those nations.

The composite was taken to Lutz's Market and then shown to an employee. Identification of the suspect was made.

Police questioned the mailman who delivered mail to the address listed by Ruth Jackson. He knew of no one by that name. He did, however, recall that three to four months before, a woman by the name of Hamm was living at that address.

Further investigation by Police officers showed that the Hamm woman was living at 106 Highland Ave. with Mrs. Dilly.

Mrs. Dilly told Police that she knew the woman by the name of Ruth Jackson from Portsmouth. When shown the composite photograph, officers said that Mrs. Dilly identified the woman as Ruth Jackson.

An employee of Lutz's Market was taken to the Dilly residence to identify the suspect. Positive identification was made. Mrs. Hunt also stated that the woman at the Dilly home was the woman who passed the check at Super Duper.

PTL. Wesley Barton then advised Mrs. Hamm of her rights and she was taken to Police Headquarters.

Mrs. Hamm stated that she wanted to see a lawyer before answering any questions.

Bond was set at $500 by Judge Sterling Lamb in a preliminary hearing today.

A second hearing is scheduled June 27. The delay was granted by Judge Lamb to give the defendant an opportunity to secure an attorney.

Scope . . .

the war. The demonstration was undoubtedly stage-managed but the wave of pro-Nasser emotion seemed largely genuine.

The loudspeakers, which only days ago echoed round the sun-baked squares of Cairo with martial music and prophecies of imminent victory, are muted now. The "on to Tel Aviv" banners are gone.

Today the commentators speak of preparations and sacrifices to be made before a "second round" can be fought. Few Egyptians believe a peaceful settlement with Israel is possible and few seem to want one. They believe that for Nasser to sit at a conference table with Israeli leaders is inconceivable.

Already Egyptians are feeling the pinch. Meat and other food is scarce. Couples have been asked to give up their wedding rings to replenish the country's gold reserves.

Harder times probably are ahead. With the Suez Canal closed, the flow of tourists at an end, Egypt's hard currency earnings have all but dried up. It is surviving on Soviet hand-outs.

The outskirts of Cairo are jammed with troops. Columns of heavy tanks lie just off the main road to the airport. MIG jets scream overhead.

The show of strength may be a precaution against a possible coup by disgruntled military elements but there is no evidence of any great disenchantment with the man who has led Egypt for 13 years.

There are signs meanwhile that Egypt, with Russian help, is already rebuilding its military forces. Big Soviet transport planes have been streaming into Cairo airport, reportedly with crated MIG fighters to replace those destroyed by Israeli bombing raids.

Diplomatic observers, however, discount that Nasser plans to reopen the shooting war against Israel within the foreseeable future.

Nasser more likely pins his hopes on diplomatic maneuvering to regain his lost territories. Arab oil and the Suez Canal are the bargaining weapons he hopes to use against the West to pressure Israel into withdrawing.

Douglas L. Chalfin, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chalfin, 521 Forrest Drive, was scratched in his right eye by the family dog.

Donna Harper, 23, Laurelville slipped while entering a car and injured her left leg.

Mrs. Viola Lee, 45, of 557 E. Mount St., while working at Lutz's Market cut the tip of her right thumb off on a meat slicer.

Auto Crash Injures Two

City Police officers investigated a minor injury and accident at 7:34 p.m. Wednesday on East Main St.

Damage to the cars involved was listed as "moderate."

According to the Police report, George Huber, Olympia, Wash., was turning into the alley beside Ford's Furniture Store when he was struck by a car driven by Fred Wooten, 536 Elm Ave.

Wooten told officers that he was shifting from low to second gear and he looked down then up again and saw Huber's car turning in front of him. It was too late to stop and he struck the other vehicle.

Huber told investigating officers that he had stopped prior to turning into the alley, looked, saw no one coming and proceeded to turn.

The Police report stated that Huber said he saw Wooten run a light and was coming at him at an excessive rate of speed. He told officers he could not get out of the way and was then struck by Wooten's car.

Two passengers in Huber's car, Charles and Ida Huber, 220 Mount St., were taken to Berger Hospital with bruises and other minor injuries.

There were no citations issued.

Prestige Is

to call on Johnson and vice versa.

The problem of a meeting place arose soon after Kosygin arrived last Saturday to spearhead the Soviet drive for a U.N. demand that Israel withdraw from the territory it occupied in the Middle East war. Kosygin in his U.N. speech also hit at U.S. policy in the Middle East and elsewhere.

Johnson invited the Soviet leader to visit him in Washington or nearby. Kosygin said he was on a visit to the United Nations rather than to the United States as such but left the door open for Johnson to come see him.

Since the U.S. government considers the U.N. session a Kremlin maneuver to curry favor with the Arabs, Johnson was reported opposed to lending his prestige to the assembly session or making what appeared to be a pilgrimage to Kosygin.

Kosygin presumably did not want to risk Arab wrath by appearing to make a pilgrimage to Johnson or seeming too friendly with him. The Arabs charge the United States with aiding Israel in the war.

But there was pressure on both leaders to demonstrate at least a token meeting that the two great powers are not about to plunge the world into a new cold war or worse.

If they do meet, they thus are likely to do so mainly for the publicity value. Top-level talks on basic international issues usually make little headway without careful advance preparation, and there has been virtually no time for such preparation in this case.

Rusk and Gromyko normally cover the broad range of East-West questions in private talks during General Assembly sessions. Their meeting Wednesday night was their first such session, and whether they would meet again was left uncertain.

Rusk planned to return to Washington late Friday.

Saving the Species

Encouraging is the word that two whooping crane eggs were successfully hatched in incubators, safe from predators that have almost exterminated the species. The whooper census now stands at 52, with three more fertilized eggs promising to raise the total before long.

The five eggs were carefully gathered from nests in northern Canada and brought to an experimental rearing station at Patuxent, Md. If successfully nurtured, the young birds will be released to help increase the wild flock.

Whooping cranes are not the most graceful birds ever to inhabit the ornithological world. They're neither swift nor particularly smart, hence their vulnerability to predatory birds and errant hunters. Doubtless, though, these very characteristics helped generate compassion for saving the species.

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I have a pins-and-needles sensation in my legs. This becomes worse when I sit in a chair for a long time. I have also had attacks of phlebitis in my legs which make it very difficult for me to walk without severe cramps. I know it must be trouble with my circulation. Are there any pills to correct this?

Mrs. O. L. Y., Minnesota
Dear Mrs. Y.: Although I rarely suggest a diagnosis by the symptoms that readers describe, yours obviously is a problem of poor circulation in the legs. Phlebitis is an inflammation of the inner or outer walls of the veins.

Almost always, this results from another underlying condition. An infection, severe varicose veins, injury and tobacco are the most common reasons for phlebitis.

The pins - and - needles sensation you so accurately describe may be caused by the stagnation of blood after sitting too long in one position. It is for this very reason that motorists are advised to stop their cars with regular intervals and get out and walk for a few minutes to re-establish their circulation.

Phlebitis and its underlying cause must never be neglected. For often a clot, or thrombus, forms on the inside wall of the vein and may present a serious complication. When a thrombus completely blocks off the vein it may cause a "milk leg" with painful swelling of the feet.

A further complication sometimes occurs when a small piece of the clot breaks away and circulates in the blood, landing in the brain, lungs or even the heart. This is called an embolus.

A very special disease, Buerger's disease, is frequently found in men of mid-European ancestry who smoke cigarettes. My daughter, who lives in a large city in Texas, has sudden spells during which her vision becomes impaired, blocking out half of her sight. Could this be due to the fact that she has been wearing contact lenses? What conditions could be responsible for these episodes which frighten her so badly?

Mrs. R. G., California
Dear Mrs. G.: Eye specialists, or ophthalmologists, are equipped with some of the most brilliantly devised instruments for the diagnosis of complex eye disorders. Their skill with these instruments is so great that rarely are they unable to pinpoint the exact cause for an eye condition.

I do not happen to believe that contact lenses have anything to do with the condition you describe. I do believe that it is imperative that your daughter consult with her own doctor so that he can refer her to an eye specialist to determine immediately the reason for her distress.

IF YOU COLLECT "firsts," you'll be interested to know that the first real hotel in the United States was the Tremont, built in Boston in 1829 at a cost of $300,000. It introduced all brand new features — desk clerks, bellboys, private bathrooms in each of the 170 rooms — and locks on all the doors.

Enrico Caruso, greatest of all the stars who ever sang at the demolished Met, had a conviction fits when ever he imagined another singer was trying to steal a scene from him. Most infuriating of his enemies was a popular soprano who also boasted a prize set of mannerisms.

One evening Caruso decided upon a showdown. When she was halfway through her most important aria, he slipped a raw egg into her cupped hands. The unheeding soprano sang her heart out, then clutched her hands together convulsively. Pandemonium ensued. The egg started dripping to the floor. The audience, led by Caruso, burst into delighted laughter. The soprano, seething with anger, wound up her song and fled from the stage. And that's the last time she tried to upstage Caruso.

Pattern of Soviet Behavior

By John Chamberlain

Every sign points to a conclusion that the Soviet Union has taken a licking in the Middle East and is trying to retrieve what it can through bluster. If the United States, and what allies it still can count on, are to take proper measure of the Communist diplomatic loud talk, the historic pattern of Bolshevik strategy should be kept clearly in mind.

From the very beginning, the Soviets, imbued with wily Leninist doctrine and fortified with the assurance that long-run "history" was on their side anyway, have always been willing to retreat. "Two steps forward and one step back," as Russian Marxist emigres used to say over the cafe table tops at Geneva. Lenin and Trotsky followed this rule in dealing with the Germans before the end of the first World War. The characteristic is probably as much Russian as it is Marxist, for the Russian steppes are endless, and there is plenty of room for temporary withdrawal, as both Napoleon and Hitler learned to their grief.

The post-World War II pattern has followed the ancient script. Moscow moved into central Europe over our stumblebum statesmanship at Yalta created a vacuum of power all the way up to the Elbe River. The Czechs, who might have fought, gave in. But gamecock Harry Truman, out of pure Missouri timidity, soon rediscovered what the professors had forgotten. He faced Stalin down in the first Middle East crisis, when the Soviets were threatening to turn Iran into an Oriental Rumania. This prefigured the Truman Doctrine. When Moscow could no longer count on Tito's Yugoslavia to back up Communist infiltration in Greece in 1947, it gracefully called off its more open meddling in Athens.

The recurrent crises in Berlin were more of the same thing. Stalin's economic blockade of West Berlin in 1948 was counteracted by General Lucius Clay, the hero of the airlift, and after a stubborn year the Russians finally gave up. A decade later Khrushchev threatened to help the East Germans take all of Berlin. But President Eisenhower, who probably regretted the failure of the Allies to move their front all the way up to the Elbe at the end of World War II, refused to be bulldozed.

Khrushchev's supreme gamble in Cuba in the missile crisis of 1962 could have collapsed more ingloriously than it did, for President John F. Kennedy's failure to insist on continuing UN inspection of Cuban missile sites and strong points permitted the Soviets to maintain effective military domination of Havana. Even so, Khrushchev beat a quite significant retreat when he took his bigger missiles out of Cuba.

The movement of the Red Chinese into Korea, which had the encouragement of Moscow, is often cited as evidence that Communism does not always back down before a show of firm power. But General Douglas MacArthur had no doubts whatsoever that the Reds crossed the Yalu only after they had been reassured, presumably by their spies in the British foreign service who subsequently defected, that the United Nations command in Korea would not be permitted to bomb the Communists' "privileged sanctuary" in Manchuria or even touch the Yalu bridges. In other words, the Communists in Korea were exploiting a sure thing. As for Hungary in 1956, Khrushchev paused for seven or eight days before going to the rescue of his stooges in Budapest. The West was so preoccupied with the Suez business that it couldn't pay much attention to Hungary. Khrushchev decided to crush the Hungarian Freedom Fighters only after he was reasonably certain that Washington would not intervene.

There is always the possibility, of course, that the Soviets will misjudge a situation. Stalin misjudged Hitler's character and motives in the days of the Nazi-Soviet Pact. And Khrushchev and Kosygin obviously thought that Nasser, armed with Russian tanks and MIGs, could face the Israelis down. But the Soviets, with the sole exception of their invasion of Finland in 1939, have never willingly risked fighting a hot war outside their own boundaries. They have won their share of victories on the world stage, but those have been achieved either by talk, subversion, or through the timidity of western statesmen who have been forgetful of Soviet reaction to a decisive "no" backed by firm strength.

Saving the Species

Encouraging is the word that two whooping crane eggs were successfully hatched in incubators, safe from predators that have almost extinguished the species. The whooper census now stands at 52, with three more fertilized eggs promising to raise the total before long.

The five eggs were carefully gathered from nests in northern Canada and brought to an experimental rearing station at Patuxent, Md. If successfully nurtured, the young birds will be released to help increase the wild flock.

Whooping cranes are not the most graceful birds ever to inhabit the ornithological world. They're neither swift nor particularly smart, hence their vulnerability to predatory birds and errant hunters. Doubtless, though, these very characteristics helped generate compassion for saving the species.

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I have a pins-and-needles sensation in my legs. This becomes worse when I sit in a chair for a long time. I have also had attacks of phlebitis in my legs which make it very difficult for me to walk without severe cramps. I know it must be trouble with my circulation. Are there any pills to correct this?

Mrs. O. L. Y., Minnesota
Dear Mrs. Y.: Although I rarely suggest a diagnosis by the symptoms that readers describe, yours obviously is a problem of poor circulation in the legs. Phlebitis is an inflammation of the inner or outer walls of the veins.

Almost always, this results from another underlying condition. An infection, severe varicose veins, injury and tobacco are the most common reasons for phlebitis.

The pins - and - needles sensation you so accurately describe may be caused by the stagnation of blood after sitting too long in one position. It is for this very reason that motorists are advised to stop their cars with regular intervals and get out and walk for a few minutes to re-establish their circulation.

Phlebitis and its underlying cause must never be neglected. For often a clot, or thrombus, forms on the inside wall of the vein and may present a serious complication. When a thrombus completely blocks off the vein it may cause a "milk leg" with painful swelling of the feet.

A further complication sometimes occurs when a small piece of the clot breaks away and circulates in the blood, landing in the brain, lungs or even the heart. This is called an embolus.

A very special disease, Buerger's disease, is frequently found in men of mid-European ancestry who smoke cigarettes. Tobacco must absolutely, totally and completely be eradicated if this severe condition of the blood vessels is to be controlled. In women, too, if they are sensitive to tobacco, a single puff may produce a change in blood circulation.

Pills of all sorts are available and are used by physicians only to control or cure the basic reasons for the phlebitis. There is no pill that can avoid the important need for a complete and thorough checkup of your circulatory condition.

Pattern of Soviet Behavior

By John Chamberlain

Every sign points to a conclusion that the Soviet Union has taken a licking in the Middle East and is trying to retrieve what is can through bluster. If the United States, and what allies it still can count on, are to take proper measure of the Communist diplomatic loud talk, the historic pattern of Bolshevik strategy should be kept clearly in mind.

From the very beginning, the Soviets, imbued with wily Leninist doctrine and fortified with the assurance that long-run "history" was on their side anyway, have always been willing to retreat. "Two steps forward and one step back," as Russian Marxist emigres used to say over the cafe table top at Geneva. Lenin and Trotsky followed this rule in dealing with the Germans before the end of the first World War. The characteristic is probably as much Russian as it is Marxist, for the Russian steps are endless, and there is plenty of room for temporary withdrawal, as both Napoleon and Hitler learned to their grief.

The post-World War II pattern has followed the ancient script. Moscow moved into central Europe when our stumblebum statesmanship at Yalta created a vacuum of power all the way up to the Elbe River. The Czechs, who might have fought, gave in. But gamecock Harry Truman, out of pure Missouri mulishness, soon rediscovered what the professors had forgotten. He faced Stalin down in the first Middle East crisis, when the Soviets were threatening to turn Iran into an Oriental Rumania. This prefigured the Truman Doctrine. When Moscow could no longer count on Tito's Yugoslavia to back up Communist infiltration in Greece in 1947, it gracefully called off its more open meddling in Athens.

The recurrent crises in Berlin were more of the same thing. Stalin's economic blockade of West Berlin in 1948 was counteracted by General Lucius Clay, the hero of the airlift, and after a stubborn year the Russians finally gave up. A decade later Khrushchev threatened to help the East Germans take all of Berlin. But President Eisenhower, who probably regretted the failure of the Allies to move their front all the way up to the Elbe at the end of World War II, refused to be bulldozed.

Khrushchev's supreme gamble in Cuba in the missile crisis of 1962 could have collapsed more ingloriously than it did, for President John F. Kennedy's failure to insist on continuing UN inspection of Cuban missile sites and strong points permitted the Soviets to maintain effective military domination of Havana. Even so, Khrushchev beat a quite significant retreat when he took his bigger missiles out of Cuba.

The movement of the Red Chinese into Korea, which had the encouragement of Moscow, is often cited as evidence that Communism does not always back down before a show of firm power. But General Douglas MacArthur had no doubts whatsoever that the Reds crossed the Yalu only after they had been reassured, presumably by their spies in the British foreign service who subsequently defected, that the United Nations command in Korea would not be permitted to bomb the Communists' "privileged sanctuary" in Manchuria or even touch the Yalu bridges. In other words, the Communists in Korea were exploiting a sure thing. As for Hungary in 1956, Khrushchev paused for seven or eight days before going to the rescue of his stooges in Budapest. The West was so preoccupied with the Suez business that it couldn't pay much attention to Hungary. Khrushchev decided to crush the Hungarian Freedom Fighters only after he was reasonably certain that Washington would not intervene.

There is always the possibility, of course, that the Soviets will misjudge a situation. Stalin misjudged Hitler's character and motives in the days of the Nazi-Soviet Pact. And Khrushchev and Kosygin obviously thought that Nasser, armed with Russian tanks and MIGs, could face the Israelis down. But the Soviets, with the sole exception of their invasion of Finland in 1939, have never willingly risked fighting a hot war outside their own boundaries. They have won their share of victories on the world stage, but those have been achieved either by talk, subversion, or through the timidity of western statesmen who have been forgetful of Soviet reaction to a decisive "no" backed by firm strength.

The Circleville Garden Club celebrated its 21st Anniversary with a guest meeting and tea, Wednesday afternoon in the Lutheran Parish House, with Mr. Russell Sheppard of Dallas, Texas, nationally known as "Mr. Weeds", as lecturer and demonstrator.

William Cook, club president, welcomed the guests from Commercial Point, Solagua, Roundtown, Deercreek, Pickaway, Shawnee, (Columbus Club), and the Circleville Club's special guests.

Mrs. George M. Meyers introduced the speaker. The meeting was delayed for an hour due to Mr. Sheppard having car trouble, but his wit and educational display made up for the lost time. Since he is an antique authority, his first arrangements were in an unusual old type of butter churn and a tar bucket.

Mr. Sheppard then completed arrangements in very odd and interesting containers with material such as kelp, from Wash-

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Quit Job If Boss Loves You

DEAR ABBY: I have been employed as a secretary by the same man for nine years. I was only 21 when I came to work here, and I was green as grass.

My boss is in his late 50s and his wife is about his age. They have children and grandchildren, and he is an important man in this community.

Over the years I noticed that he took an interest in women. He took them to lunch, cocktails, dinner, and bought some of them gifts. I figured this was none by my business.

He used to compliment me on my hair, clothes, etc., but I paid no attention.

I recently announced my engagement and told him I wanted a month off for my honeymoon, but would return to work for a while after that. He then asked if he could "kiss the bride," so I told him he could, at my wedding. Then he broke down and started to cry like a baby, telling me he had been "in love" with me all these years. He said he and his wife hadn't lived as man and wife for 20 years, blah, blah...

I was stunned.

Then he got over it real quick and said he was only "kidding." (Kidding? With real tears?)

Now I ask you, should I quit my job for good when I marry? Or should I come back and pretend all this never happened? It's a good job and he needs me.

IN A QUANDARY

DEAR IN: When you quit, stay away. He may need you, but you need him like a kangaroo needs a brief case.

DEAR ABBY: I am engaged to a very high class man I have been dating for over a year. Cal gave me a nice pearl engagement ring which he had sized for my little finger. I never knew an engagement ring could be worn on the little finger. He doesn't want me to tell anyone we are engaged as he doesn't want it to get back to his mother. Here's the background:

I have been married, divorced, and have a child, and Cal hasn't told his mother about that yet. I've met his mother a few times and she seems to like me okay, but she thinks I'm just another one of Cal's girlfriends.

I told Cal if he didn't tell his mother about me and the baby I was going to tell her. He keeps saying he will in time. How long should I wait? I am 26 and Cal is 33. I've had this ring since last December and I want to make some plans.

WAITING

DEAR WAITING: Set a "deadline" (one week) and if Cal doesn't tell his mother about you, consider your "engagement" dead.

DEAR ABBY: Our son is a professional photographer and one of the best in town. He snaps everything and everybody but his own mother and father.

From the time he was a small boy he was interested in photography as a hobby so his Dad and I always saw to it that he had the best equipment.

Now that he is a professional with a fine studio you would think he would offer to take our pictures, but he never has. Even at family gatherings when he's busy taking candid shots, if we don't stick our faces in a couple of pictures we'd be left out entirely.

We are average looking people and wouldn't break his camera. It would be nice to have some good studio pictures of ourselves before we get old and gray. We haven't had a decent picture taken in 15 years!

What do you suppose is the matter with him? Any suggestion?

ASHAMED

DEAR ASHAMED: He's thoughtless. Call his studio and ask for an "appointment."

Paul Winks Is a Master At Vegetable Growing Art

Paul Lee Winks, 74, who lives on Route 159 a couple of miles north of Kingston, has a magnificent vegetable garden. He is proud of it and well he may be. It surely has few real competitors among amateur gardens in this county. The main garden is about 120 by 96 feet.

Nor does Winks ever allow a tractor to desecrate the area. He believes that a heavy tractor only packs the soil down. This intrepid vegetable raiser spades the entire area himself. And not content with this he has added two other vegetable patches near the barn. One barnyard patch is 32 by 8 and the other is 22 by 14.

Winks showed us his trusty hoe. He figures that since 1917 (when he first took to serious hoeing) he has worn out ten hoes. And his present hoe is well on its way to a worn-out state because it is not more than three and a half inches wide now. We think it should become the property of the Pickaway County Historical Society for here surely is a hoe belonging to one of the county's best gardeners.

The Winks and their family live on Mrs. Effie Hildenbrand's place and she is highly pleased with the good shape the grounds are in since the Winks moved there. They will have been tenants here for seven years come next March.

Lee Winks takes his gardening seriously because it provides food for the entire year. He never has to buy potatoes for instance. And his wife, Norma, dedicates her summers to fruit and vegetable canning. She cans everything that her husband grows in his garden and everything in the fruit line that the place provides. This includes grapes, cherries, plums, peaches, apples and rhubarb. Norma Winks makes jellies, preserves, and butters. In the pickle department she makes catsup, relishes, chow-chows, chili sauce.

Paul Lee Winks was once a Jackson twp. farmer. This was about the time that George McDowell was superintendent at Jackson Twp. school. There were five Winks kids who attended Jackson. The boys (two of them) now live in this area and the girls live in Michigan, Tennessee and one in Toledo, Ohio.

But a lot of time has elapsed since the Jackson Twp. farm days. Winks gave up farming in 1928. Since then he has been an employee of Southern Ohio Electric and worked for the late W. W. Robinson, Circleville dairyman. He helped build Hargus Lake. But all this time he was the man with a hoe in his hand.

Winks remarried after his first wife's death and has a young family now. He has two sons by his second wife. They are Paul, 16, and Larry 11, and his step-son Leroy Swackhamer.

We asked if he received help from the kids. "Not in the garden," Winks said. A few years ago he thought he'd put the youngsters to work at assigned tasks to help him out with his vegetable garden. He was called away for a short time and the kids had started "horsing around making like the garden was a race track." So they do not help in the garden not any more, they don't!

What's in this fabulous garden? Well potatoes for one thing. Mrs. Winks said that when the ground crusted over and cracked around potato plants this meant the potatoes were forming. We saw the cracks and she then showed us the young potatoes. Already good-sized!

Winks said he aimed to get the potatoes planted on Good Friday. Since it was raining then he planted them a day or two later. We asked if he believed in "Planting by the Sign". He does not. He plants when he feels like it. He has seven rows of U.S. Maine Number One potatoes. The rest of the patch is in other varieties.

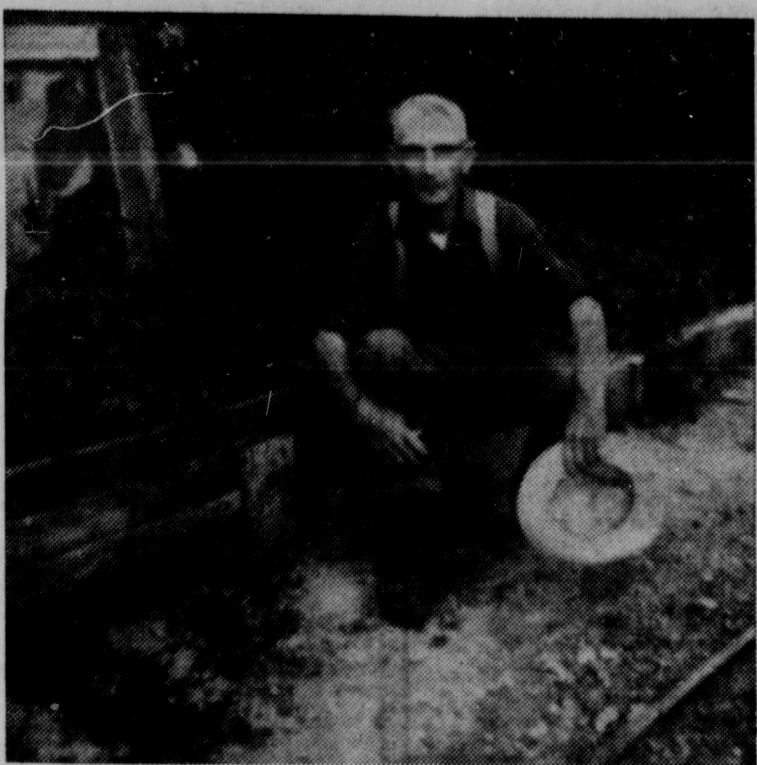

He has 200 sweet potato plants in hilled rows. He has two rows of beans climbing tepees made of poles. Winks thinks it pays to tie bean vines to the poles. One year he thought he would not bother to do this and along came a terrific wind storm and blew them to the ground.

The Winks have peas. They generally make three plantings of peas each year so that young peas will be coming along for a longer period.

Lima beans? These will be planted later. Now there are onions, several different kinds of lettuce, carrots, cabbages, tomatoes and corn. Peppers will be the big California type-mangoes both red and yellow.

Gardener Winks showed us the cold frames where he raised plants from seed such as cabbage and tomatoes. He has several kinds of tomatoes he likes, some for size, others for flavor.

Just to make sure there would be no dearth of vegetables and possibly because he could not bear to see good soil going to

The Winks' garden was practically weedless when the garden editor visited it. Lee Winks says he used his hoe as the chief means of cultivation. He also has a small push cultivator.

We inquired about fertilizer. He has used two sacks of triple-four fertilizer.

New Trend Forbids Notes On Abstracts

There's a trend away from the now common practice of leaving an explanatory note with your abstract arrangements to clue the judge in on just what you were thinking about.

This information was brought back by Pickaway County nationally accredited flower show judges after the meeting of the Southern Ohio Council of Judges. This includes judges from Columbus, Jackson, Dayton, Chillicothe and Cincinnati.

Well it's another case of action and reaction. . . of the pendulum swinging in the opposite direction.

Mrs. Kenneth Hannan, Pickaway County Garden Club president, gifted arranger and popular flower show judge has long been opposed to the practice of leaving explanatory notes with abstract arrangements.

Says Mrs. Hannan, "What is it anyway - a flower show or a literary society?"

The stock argument in favor of note leaving is, "Well, after all, judges are not mind readers."

Mrs. Hannan has long maintained that the note leaving practice is an insult to arranger and judge alike.

Well if the trend is away from explanatory notes one thing is sure. In the future, notes will get you nowhere. Don't leave one.

The pendulum is swinging around to Mrs. Hannan's way of thinking.

From now on it's going to be a flower show and not a literary society.

But our guess is that there will be quite a few puzzled judges.

All 400 Varieties To Be in Bloom At Park of Roses

The Columbus Park of Roses should be at peak bloom now according to Tom Starker, foreman in charge of the Park.

There are more than 35,000 rose plants, all of which will be in bloom during the peak bloom time which is June 15th to the 30th.

It is really quite a beautiful sight to see over 400 different varieties all in bloom at the same time.

You may also see many new roses including the All American Rose Selection in the American Rose Society testing area.

Go see the largest Municipal Rose Park in the world while it is at peak bloom.

The Park of Roses is located in the 4000 block on North High Street and is open daily 10 a.m. until dark.

CLEMATIS VINES — Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sheets of Five Points have just about the "bloomiest" clematis that can be imagined. They have combined Jackman and Crimson Glory clematis to form a curtain of shade for the west side of their patio in back. They are pictured here examining some of their fine big blossoms.

Clematis, Berries Current Projects At Sheets' Home

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sheets of Five Points are long time gardeners of real excellence. Right now its their clematis vines and their 300 strawberry plants that are providing them current pleasure.

A little later it will be something else. Their cannas and their bed of hybrid tea roses for instance.

But right now the clematis vines which completely cover the west side of their patio are in blossom. And this, I can tell you is a lovely sight.

Joe Sheets says the vines are four years old. Yes he gives them plenty of water. He fertilizes them regularly and twice a year gives them a feeding of lime. He just digs a couple of cupfuls of lime into the surrounding soil.

The varieties he has are Jackman (deep blue-purple) and Crimson Glory (red purple). Vines are covered with hundreds of blooms and thousands of buds bursting into blossom in a week or two.

Mrs. Sheets estimates that bloom-time lasts about two and a half or three weeks.

The Sheets have provided a heavy wire netting for the vines' support.

Vines were purchased at a Columbus nursery. They were three inch vines when purchased — mere switches. Clematis vines form such a heavy curtain of bloom and foliage that the Sheets pleasant backdoor patio is shaded completely from the hot western sun.

In the fall Joe Sheets cuts the entire vine down to about three feet above the ground. Blossoms are prone to flower more heavily on new growth he believes. And he proved a point there because we had never seen a clematis more thickly studded with blossoms.

As to the strawberry patch the Sheets have experimented with five varieties. They plan to stick with Sure Crop, which produces fine big berries, Cat-skill and Pochantus. These three seem to be blight-free.

Mrs. Sheets is the strawberry picker. She was quite proud of the size of the berries and the ease with which she sold them. When we talked with her last Thursday she had picked 114 quarts.

No, picking strawberries is not a chore, it's a delightful occupation as far as Mrs. Sheets is concerned. And when her husband says he believes he'll double the planting she says it is okay as far as she is concerned.

The Sheets will reserve a few strawberries to freeze for themselves and Mrs. Sheets will make some strawberry jam. But the little patch is really a commercial project that they feel is pretty exciting.

There are Blaze roses festooning the rustic fence at the Joe Sheets and a patch of white daisies at the driveway and sweet Williams encircling the flag pole.

But now it's the clematis vine and the strawberries that are the high points of their gardening endeavors. And no wonder!

Judge Distinguishes Roses by Fragrance

Did you know that even the rose experts have a difficult time distinguishing certain roses from each other? We were amazed to learn last Friday at the Solauqua Garden Club breakfast that even knowledgeable rosarians are sometimes puzzled concerning Crimson Glory and Chrysler Imperial.

They say an easy way to tell the difference is to smell the roses. Crimson Glory has a distinctive fragrance lacking in Chrysler Imperial.

The judge, Mrs. James Jackson, held up two red specimens and we were amused to see her sniff the posies and then proclaim one of them to be Crimson Glory.

This is certainly a case of "your nose knows".

Garden Gossip

We stopped by to see Frank Hawkes' Song of Paris rose the other day. This is my favorite lavender rose to date. It's color was a little on the crushed raspberry side. But it was a thrifty bush with excellent foliage.

It seems to me that the lavender roses are a mite on the weak side. Lady X is a new lilac rose said to be sturdy and beautiful.

We were all hoping Mrs. John Koch would get to the Pickaway County Garden Club flower show with her burr rose. This is an old variety and the buds do indeed look like burrs. It is a many-petaled pink.

The Joe Sheets rose bed is beautifully labeled. Joe says it is irksome indeed if somebody comes and asks the name of a certain rose and he has forgotten it. He is also disappointed when he goes someplace and the gardener can't tell him the name of a particular flower.

Correct labeling is what separates the men from the boys garden-wise. It is very difficult to keep plants labeled properly.

We were so impressed with the Winks vegetable garden that it came to our mind that it would be an interesting commercial project to run a pick-it-yourself garden and let town vegetable lovers come out and pick vegetables fresh from your garden.

Mr. Winks says he would not be averse to selling vegetables. I am going over to purchase peas from him this week.

Mrs. Louise Crawford noted with interest that the birds stealing all the cherries in the big tree over in the yard of the late Ray Reid were cedar waxwings. She observed that these birds were not seen very frequently around here in large numbers. Ordinarily if you spotted one Cedar Waxwing your day was made she said.

We visited at the Joe Christy home on Route 22 recently. The place once belonged to Joe's great-grandfather. And Joe always loved it according to his wife.

There was a bee hive at Christy's. Their son Bob had been keeping as a 4-H project and he had an apiary exhibit as a science fair project one year. He received a very high rating and would have won a trip west except that he was on the too-young side of the ledger.

Young Christy's at the university now. There's no time for bee keeping.

Roberta Hedges identified my strange new plant for me. It was a variety of salvia. She has the same thing only it is white. I consider it a beautiful

Mrs. James Jackson of Ewing ton, who gave the demonstration at the Solauqua Garden Club rose breakfast confided that her favorite flower was the daylily. Yes, she likes to use it in arrangements. She even showed her audience how a fresh daylily could be implanted on the same stem in an arrangement each day.

Mrs. Jackson is now the Ohio State President of the National Corsage Society.

Mrs. Jackson showed us all how to make glanellias from glad florets. It looked very easy. But somebody in the audience spoke up and said not to be discouraged the first try because it really is difficult at first.

Mrs. Jackson wants everybody to learn how to make corsages. The knowledge will come in handy sooner or later she said.

We asked Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sheets about their funny mynah bird that could talk as plainly as a person. They said he became sort of cross. So now somebody else has him.

Joe's mother was keeping the bird while the young couple was in Florida one year. The bird got after Mrs. Sheets and bit her and it took both her husband and herself to settle him down. It was a sure case of "biting the hand that's feeding you."

Mrs. Joe Sheets says she prefers her robin that nested in the clematis vine's shelter on their back patio.

Monrovia Garden Club had to cancel its flower show scheduled June 15. The hail storm had done too much damage to the flowers in that area.

Mrs. Charles Fleming said her garden was chewed to pieces by the hail.

Paul Winks Is a Master At Vegetable Growing Art

Paul Lee Winks, 74, who lives on Route 159 a couple of miles north of Kingston, has a magnificent vegetable garden. He is proud of it and well he may be. It surely has few real competitors among amateur gardeners in this county. The main garden is about 120 by 96 feet. Nor does Winks ever allow a tractor to desecrate the area. He believes that a heavy tractor only packs the soil down. This intrepid vegetable raiser spades the entire area himself. And not content with this he has added two other vegetable patches near the barn. One barnyard patch is 32 by 8 and the other is 22 by 14. Winks showed us his trusty hoe. He figures that since 1917 (when he first took to serious hoeing) he has worn out ten hoes. And his present hoe is well on its way to a worn-out state because it is not more than three and a half inches wide now. We think it should become the property of the Pickaway County Historical Society for here surely is a hoe belonging to one of the county's best gardeners.

The Winks and their family live on Mrs. Effie Hildenbrand's place and she is highly pleased with the good shape the grounds are in since the Winks moved there. They will have been tenants here for seven years come next March. Lee Winks takes his gardening seriously because it provides food for the entire year. He never has to buy potatoes for instance. And his wife, Norma, dedicates her summers to fruit and vegetable canning. She cans everything that her husband grows in his garden and everything in the fruit line that the place provides. This includes grapes, cherries, plums, peaches, apples and rhubarb. Norma Winks makes jellies, preserves, and butters. In the pickle department she makes catsup, relishes, chow-chows, chili sauce.

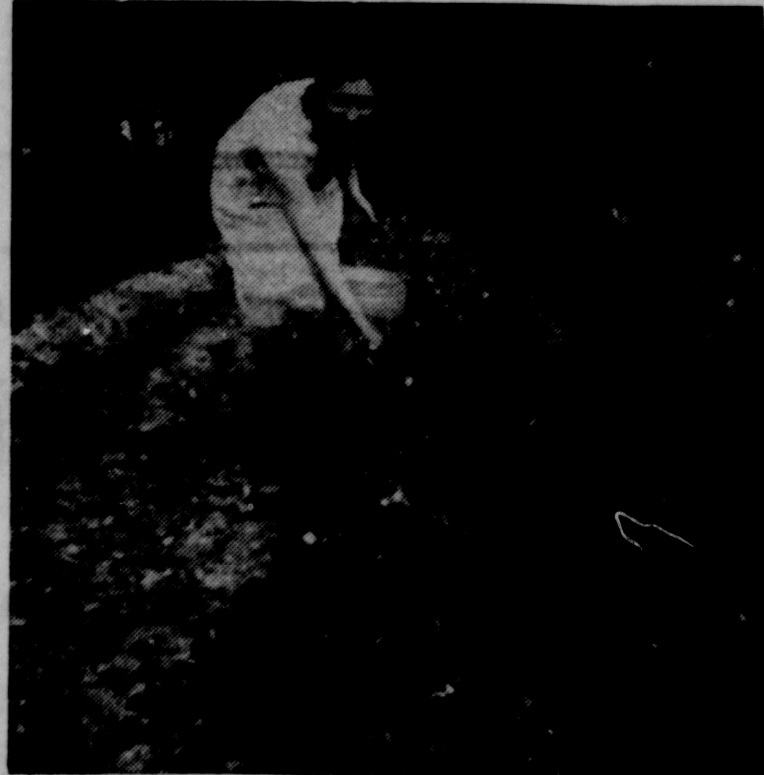

Paul Lee Winks was once a Jackson twp. farmer. This was about the time that George McDowell was superintendent at Jackson Twp. school. There were five Winks kids who attended Jackson. The boys (two of them) now live in this area and the girls live in Michigan, Tennessee and one in Toledo, Ohio. But a lot of time has elapsed since the Jackson Twp. farm days. Winks gave up farming in 1928. Since then he has been an employee of Southern Ohio Electric and worked for the late W. W. Robinson, Circleville dairyman. He helped build Hargus Lake. But all this time he was the man with a hoe in his hand. Winks remarried after his first wife's death and has a young family now. He has two sons by his second wife. They are Paul, 16, and Larry 11, and his step-son Leroy Swackhamer.

We asked if he received help from the kids. "Not in the garden," Winks said. A few years ago he thought he'd put the youngsters to work at assigned tasks to help him out with his vegetable garden. He was called away for a short time and the kids had started "horsing around making like the garden was a race track." So they do not help in the garden not any more, they don't! What's in this fabulous garden? Well potatoes for one thing. Mrs. Winks said that when the ground crusted over and cracked around potato plants this meant the potatoes were forming. We saw the cracks and she then showed us the young potatoes. Already good-sized! Winks said he aimed to get the potatoes planted on Good Friday. Since it was raining then he planted them a day or two later. We asked if he believed in "Planting by the Sign". He does not. He plants when he feels like it. He has seven rows of U.S. Maine Number One potatoes. The rest of the patch is in other varieties.

Judge Distinguishes Roses by Fragrance

Did you know that even the rose experts have a difficult time distinguishing certain roses from each other? We were amazed to learn last Friday at the Solagua Garden Club breakfast that even knowledgeable rosarians are sometimes puzzled concerning Crimson Glory and Chrysler Imperial.

They say an easy way to tell the difference is to smell the roses. Crimson Glory has a distinctive fragrance lacking in Chrysler Imperial.

The judge, Mrs. James Jackson, held up two red specimens and we were amused to see her sniff the posies and then proclaim one of them to be Crimson Glory.

This is certainly a case of "your nose knows".

We were so impressed with the Winks vegetable garden that it came to our mind that it would be an interesting commercial project to run a pick-it-yourself garden and let town vegetable lovers come out and pick vegetables fresh from your garden.

Mr. Winks says he would not be averse to selling vegetables. I am going over to purchase peas from him this week.

Mrs. Louise Crawford noted with interest that the birds stealing all the cherries in the big tree over in the yard of the late Ray Reid were cedar waxwings. She observed that these birds were not seen very frequently around here in large numbers. Ordinarily if you spotted one Cedar Waxwing your day was made she said.

We visited at the Joe Christy home on Route 22 recently. The place once belonged to Joe's great-grandfather. And Joe always loved it according to his wife.

There was a bee hive at Christy's. Their son Bob had been keeping a 4-H project and he had an apiary exhibit as a science fair project one year. He received a very high rating and would have won a trip west except that he was on the too-young side of the ledger.

Young Christy's at the university now. There's no time for bee keeping.

Roberta Hedges identified my strange new plant for me. It was a variety of salvia. She has the same thing only it is white. I consider it a beautiful plant . . . coarse, but striking in a border.

Mrs. James Jackson of Ewington, who gave the demonstration at the Solagua Garden Club rose breakfast confided that her favorite flower was the daylily. Yes, she likes to use it in arrangements. She even showed her audience how a fresh daylily could be implanted on the same stem in an arrangement each day.

Mrs. Jackson is now the Ohio State President of the National Corgage Society.

Mrs. Jackson showed us all how to make glameillas from glad florets. It looked very easy. But somebody in the audience spoke up and said not to be discouraged the first try because it really is difficult at first.

Mrs. Jackson wants everybody to learn how to make corgages. The knowledge will come in handy sooner or later she said.

We asked Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sheets about their funny mynah bird that could talk as plainly as a person. They said he became sort of cross. So now somebody else has him.

Joe's mother was keeping the bird while the young couple was in Florida one year. The bird got after Mrs. Sheets and bit her and it took both her husband and herself to settle him down. It was a sure case of "biting the hand that's feeding you."

Mrs. Joe Sheets says she prefers her robin that nested in the clematis vine's shelter on their back patio.

Monrovia Garden Club had to cancel its flower show scheduled June 15. The hail storm had done too much damage to the flowers in that area.

Mrs. Charles Fleming said her garden was chewed to pieces by the hail.

Let's Tour Ohio

History and Scenery, In Southeastern Ohio

Editor's Note: This is one of a series of short tours to top Ohio travel attractions prepared for The Circleville Herald by The Columbus Automobile Club.

Historical or roadside scenery buffs, outdoors enthusiasts or those who just want to relax, will find something of interest on a trip into southeastern Ohio.

Most of the attractions, like those at Marietta, have been there for years, but recent opening of Burr Oak State Lodge has added fine accommodations with an outdoor appeal.

In Burr Oak Lake State Park, off Ohio 78, the state-owned lodge has 60 rooms, a dining room, and an indoor-outdoor pool. There also is a beach, tennis, hiking, fishing and boating (including rentals). Daily rates are $8-10 single, $14-16 double.

Nearby are 30 new two-bedroom cottages ($75 per week). Camping, picnicking and public boating and swimming are reached off Ohio 13.

The area between Burr Oak Lake and Marietta over Ohio 78 and 60 abounds with roadside views as does Ohio 676 northwest toward Stockport. The numerous river locks on the Muskingum also are an attraction.

Marietta was the first permanent settlement in Ohio (1788), and there is a marked tour of its historical attractions. Some highlights are:

Campus Martius Museum, where the home of Rufus Putnam, who led the first settlers, is preserved. There are other exhibits of early settlers, and a museum of Ohio River boats. Admission is free; hours are 9 to 5 daily, Sunday 1-5.

Journalists To Attend Workshop

Janice Perdion, co-editor for the "Skandha", Logan Elm High School yearbook for 1968, Brenda Mills, assistant editor for the L.E. school newspaper, the "Elm Log" and other journalism staff members, Nancy Wolford, Jo Ellen Smalley, Max Schooley, Vicki Weaver and Penny Smith are attending a journalism workshop at Ohio University in Athens this week.

Each student will be offered workshop opportunities in his field of interest. Several nationally known speakers will be appearing before the students. A program of parties, dances, and other recreation has also been planned for the students.

The Ohio Company Land Office is directly behind the Museum. It is the oldest building in the Northwest Territory and is restored and furnished.

The William P. Snyder, jr., one of the last sternwheel steamboats on inland waterways, is anchored at Sacra St. in the Muskingum River. It is open 9 to 5 daily. Admission is 25 cents (children 10 cents).

Mound Cemetery is the final resting place of Putnam and 24 soldiers of the Revolutionary War. The cemetery surrounds a "Conus," a 30-foot high burial mound and a perfect example of the Moundbuilders art.

Another historical site is southeast of Stockport on Ohio 266, where the Big Bottom State Monument marks the location of an Indian massacre of white settlers in 1791. Picnic facilities are on the grounds.

The AAA club suggests this routing to the tour area: From Circleville, take U.S. 22 to Jct. with U.S. 33 in Lancaster; southeast on U.S. 33 to Jct. with Ohio Route 216 in Nelsonville; Ohio Route 216 to Jct. with Ohio Route 78 at Murray City; east on Ohio Route 78 to the tour area.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Last year President Johnson's civil rights program was massacred in Congress and the one he asked for this year looks headed for the same fate. The reasons are about the same because nothing much has changed. Negro violence is one.

After the House passed Johnson's civil rights bill in 1966, the Senate killed it with a filibuster. And Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Democratic majority leader, indicated why.

He mentioned "marches, shootings and inflammatory speeches" and said "there is no place for mob mentality and its deliberate stimulation." Already this year there have been riots, shootings and inflammatory speeches before Congress got down to work on Johnson's 1967 program.

Johnson has been conscious of the effect of street violence on the Senate, which has been apathetic about civil rights ever since it passed the 1965 act.

When he offered this year's proposals in a special message Feb. 15 Johnson, noting the 1966 riots' chilling effect in the Capitol, sounded pretty much like Mansfield.

"Lawlessness," he said, "cannot be tolerated in a nation whose very existence depends upon respect for the law." As an antidote he suggested creating "conditions for public order based upon equal justice."

Riots weren't the only dead-end election year and by the time the bill came up in the Senate the members were anxious to get home. And there was the influence of antagonistic, individual senators.

This was particularly true of Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, leader of the Senate Republicans. He gaged totally on the open housing section of the bill.

This section was intended to prevent discrimination against Negroes in the sale and rental of housing even though its reach was limited since it would have banned discrimination in only about 40 per cent of the nation's housing units.

Dirksen called it unconstitutional, an invasion of private rights—an argument which had a lot of echoes around the country, although one Negro leader, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., called Dirksen a hypocrite.

Another rigid antagonist last year was the chairman of the Senate's powerful Judiciary Committee, Sen. James O. Eastland, a Mississippi Democrat. He has been against civil rights legislation all the way.

He is against this year's bill, too, predicting it will meet the same end as last year's. And Mansfield says he doesn't see much difference between the 1966 and 1967 bills.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People this year, as in the past, has worked zealously to get new legislation on the books but some of the senators most sympathetic to the Negroes are pathetic to its efforts think the outlook is dim.

Perhaps some sections of what Johnson asked for may get through, but there seems little reason at this moment to think so. He offered a seven-point program whose open housing section went further than his 1966 suggestion.

He asked for legislation which would wipe out housing discrimination altogether by 1969.

These are his other six points:

—Strengthen present laws against interference with civil rights workers and others.

—Do the same with state jurisdictions.

—Authorize the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission to issue enforceable cease-and-desist orders against racial discrimination.

—Strengthen the 1964 Civil Rights Act ban on discrimination in hiring, promotion of workers and membership practices of labor unions.

—Extend the life of the Civil Rights Commission another five years.

—Put more money into the Community Relations Service which tries to settle community disputes before they erupt into riots.

Johnson has been conscious of the effect of street violence on the Senate, which has been apathetic about civil rights ever since it passed the 1965 act.

When he offered this year's proposals in a special message Feb. 15 Johnson, noting the 1966 riots' chilling effect in the Capitol, sounded pretty much like Mansfield.

"Lawlessness," he said, "cannot be tolerated in a nation whose very existence depends upon respect for the law." As an antidote he suggested creating "conditions for public order based upon equal justice."

Riots weren't the only dead-end election year and by the time the bill came up in the Senate the members were anxious to get home. And there was the influence of antagonistic, individual senators.

This was particularly true of Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, leader of the Senate Republicans. He gaged totally on the open housing section of the bill.

This section was intended to prevent discrimination against Negroes in the sale and rental of housing even though its reach was limited since it would have banned discrimination in only about 40 per cent of the nation's housing units.

Dirksen called it unconstitutional, an invasion of private rights—an argument which had a lot of echoes around the country, although one Negro leader, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., called Dirksen a hypocrite.

Another rigid antagonist last year was the chairman of the Senate's powerful Judiciary Committee, Sen. James O. Eastland, a Mississippi Democrat. He has been against civil rights legislation all the way.

He is against this year's bill, too, predicting it will meet the same end as last year's. And Mansfield says he doesn't see much difference between the 1966 and 1967 bills.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People this year, as in the past, has worked zealously to get new legislation on the books but some of the senators most sympathetic to its efforts think the outlook is dim.

Perhaps some sections of what Johnson asked for may get through, but there seems little reason at this moment to think so. He offered a seven-point program whose open housing section went further than his 1966 suggestion.

suggestion.

He asked for legislation which would wipe out housing discrimination altogether by 1969.

These are his other six points: —Strengthen present laws against interference with civil rights workers and others.

—Do the same with state jurisdictions.

—Authorize the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission to issue enforceable cease-and-desist orders against racial discrimination.

—Strengthen the 1964 Civil Rights Act ban on discrimination in hiring, promotion of workers and membership practices of labor unions.

—Extend the life of the Civil Rights Commission another five years.

—Put more money into the Community Relations Service which tries to settle community disputes before they erupt into riots.

Players Choose Lineups for Annual All-Star Tilt

NEW YORK (AP)—If outfielders were allowed to play other positions in baseball's All-Star Game, the major league players would have an easier time in making their selections.

The players went to the polls today to vote for the starting American National League lineups for the summer classic to be played in Anaheim, Tuesday, July 11.

Just what outfielders not to vote for was the number one problem facing the electorate.

Ebenhack Wins with Countess Jerri

Countess Jerri, owned and driven by Emmitt Ebenhack of Circleville, won the sixth race at Scioto Downs Wednesday.

It was the fourth win in six starts this season for the 6-year-old bay mare. She paced the mile in 2:06 4-5, paying 11.40, 5.00 and 4.60.

In the same race, Porter Martin's Jean's Tavern placed fourth.

Forrest Short, driving Rod Knight, was second in the second race of the evening's program, paying $3.20 and $3. The mile was won in 2:09 by Star John. Short finished fifth with Sara Ann Scotch in the eighth.

Ebenhack reined the 4-year-old trotter, Middy Blouse, owned by his wife Martha, in the third race, finishing sixth. He was placed fifth by the judges.

Jim Mace, driving Pink Taffy, owned by Frank Rhoads and Arthur Mace, was sixth in the final race of Wednesday's program.

In the preliminary non-betting races, Mace reined Nauty Jane, owned by Henry L. Ford of Washington C. H. to a win in 2:11 4-5.

In the National League seven outfielders are among the top 10 hitters and six are in first place in six of the seven individual categories kept by statisticians.

Six outfielders are among the top 10 hitters in the American League, and Baltimore's Frank Robinson not only is the No. 1 batter but he also leads in home runs and runs batted in as he bids for a second straight Triple Crown.

Roberto Clemente, Pittsburgh right fielder, leads the National League hitters; right fielder Hank Aaron of Atlanta is tops in homers and runs scored; Jim Wynn, Houston center fielder, leads in RBI, and St. Louis left fielder Lou Brock leads in hits and stolen bases.

The only nonoutfielders among the first 10 NL hitters are St. Louis first baseman Orlando Cepeda, catcher Tim Mc-

Carver of St. Louis and Philadelphia third baseman Richie Allen. Cepeda, who has played the outfield, is tops in doubles.

The American League non-outfielders who rank among the top 10 in hitting are Detroit catcher Bill Freehan, Minnesota second baseman Rod Carew, California first baseman Don Mincher and Boston shortstop Rico Petrocelli.

Outfielders Cesar Tovar of Minnesota and Rick Monday of Kansas City are not among the first 10 hitters, but Tovar leads in doubles and Monday is tied for first in triples.

The players in each league vote for three outfielders, without designating any positions, four infielders and a catcher.

The managers—Hank Bauer of Baltimore for the American League and Walt Alston of Los Angeles for the National—name the reserves and the pitching staffs.

American League President Joe Cronin named Chicago Manager Eddie Stanky and California skipper Bill Rigney as coaches Wednesday.

The AL starting lineups, except for pitchers, will be announced Tuesday and the NL on Wednesday.

Legion Team Reorganizes

Tryouts and practice sessions for the American Legion baseball team will be held 4:30 to 5:30 p. m. tonight and Friday at Ted Lewis Park.

The team, organized for high school aged ball players in Pickaway County, is being coached by Chet Iery and Chuck Hill.

The team will play an independent schedule and will also make an attempt to enter the District Legion baseball tournament.

A Saturday practice and tryout session will also be scheduled.

Pettibone's 37 Paces Lansdowne Men's League

Herb Pettibone's low gross score of 37 and his low net of 32 topped the individual action in the Upper Lansdowne Men's Golf League Wednesday.

The Sandbaggers and the Hackers, with 76 points each, are tied for the lead in the league. Parbustars are in third place.

Members of the Sandbaggers are Dick Robbins, Gale Leatherwood, Jerry Kraus and Paul Francis. The Hackers are Herb Pettibone, Jake Bailey, Jerry Pritchard and Charles Hanes.

Pete Larson of Cornell led the Ivy League in football scoring last season with 54 points, six more than Dartmouth's Pete Walton.

Charles Pritchard Is New Logan Elm Basketball Coach

Charles Pritchard, a graduate of Laurelville High School and coach at Huntington High School in Ross County, has signed a contract to teach and coach basketball at Logan Elm for the coming year.

Pritchard will replace Keith Merrin as head basketball mentor. Merrin has accepted the head coaching position at Delaware Hayes High School.

Pritchard has been coaching at Huntington for the past four years, winning the Zane Trace Holiday tournament one time.

Under his guidance, the Huntsmen have placed second in the rugged Ross County League the past two years. The Ross League winner, Southeastern, advanced to the state tournament both of those years.

PRITCHARD attended Wilmington College, receiving his bachelor's degree. He is presently working toward his master's degree at Xavier University, Cincinnati.

Before moving to Huntington, Pritchard was the head mentor at Corning High School in Perry County for one year, taking his team to the District Tournament where Proctorville-Fairland finally ended his tourney hopes. That same year, Logan Elm defeated Proctorville-Fairland in the first game of the Regional Tournament at Ohio University, Athens.

Pritchard believes the style of basketball played by a team should fit the ability of the boys who play.

"I don't know what I'll do at Logan Elm," Pritchard said in an early morning telephone interview today.

"I understand they have a boy that's over 6-3 and I've never coached a team with a boy that tall."

Actually Logan Elm had two boys playing on last year's reserve team who were well over 6 feet tall. They were Royce Woolever who is over 6 feet 6 inches tall and Robert Cree, who stands about 6 feet 5 inches.

HOWEVER, the Braves have only one returning starter from last year's co-championship quintet of the Scioto Valley Conference. He is Dale Jenne. The other four regular starters all graduated.

Pritchard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pritchard Sr. of Adelphi.

Married, he and his family plan to move to the area sometime in August before the beginning of the school term.

Rain Postpones Indians' Game Against the Angels

CLEVELAND (AP) — Larry Brown was only half glad for the extra day off.

The Cleveland Indians shortstop said he might go to the movies after rain postponed Wednesday night's game against the California Angels. It'll be played Aug. 21.

"I guess I can use the rest," said Brown. "But still, when you're feeling good, there aren't enough games to play. You hate to stand still for a minute."

Brown is currently batting .233 and said he has been confident at the job since Manager Joe Adcock walked up in spring training and said he had the position.

"I just feel better and feel that others have confidence in me," he said.

"I had plenty of confidence in myself last season," Brown continued, "but then I got hurt. Maybe I tried to come back too soon and just wasn't strong enough. I really don't know. But I quickly lost the confidence I had built up in myself."

Brown was out for six weeks with a skull fracture last season.

The Indians face the Angels tonight with Sam McDowell scheduled to oppose Jim McGlothlin.

Cincinnati Wins, 3-2, From Houston Wednesday

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati's second-place Reds returned home from a disastrous nine-game road trip today, a four-game losing streak finally broken with a 3-2 Wednesday night win over Houston.

It was only their third victory of the tour.

Tonight they play an exhibition game with the Washington Senators, the proceeds going to sandlot baseball hereabouts.

Friday they begin a three-game round with Pittsburgh, followed by four games with Los Angeles.

In winning yet another one-run victory Wednesday night—their seventh of the month against one loss of the same kind—the Reds did it with homers by Tony Perez, his 15th, to lead off the second, and by Lee May, his fifth, to open the seventh, and a tie-breaking run in the ninth by Vada Pinson.

The Astros had touched starter Milt Pappas for a run in the first when Joe Morgan walked, stole second and was singled home by Rusty Staub. Jim Wynn hit his 17th homer in the sixth, tying him with Hank Aaron for the league lead.

Pinson opened the ninth with a double down the left field line. Perez flied to Wynn, Pinson going to third, and Pinson scored as Larry Dierker threw out May.

The win went to Ted Abernathy (2-1) while Dierker, with six victories, took his fifth loss.

Jack Nicklaus Favored To Win Cleveland Open

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — Newly crowned U.S. Open king Jack Nicklaus was a heavy favorite today to capture the $103,500 Cleveland Open Golf Tournament.

But the big belter from Columbus wasn't likely to carry a smug attitude into the first round of play.

The blond power-hitter won the National Open in record-shattering fashion last weekend with a crafty performance. His five-under-par 65 Sunday at Baltusrol Country Club in Springfield, N.J., included eight birdies.

It was the second Open crown for the 27-year-old Buckeye pro who owns every major title in the book.

But Nicklaus, who has won more than a half million dollars in slightly more than five years, has never come out on top here. Observers figure he may find the $20,700 first prize interesting enough to apply the pressure.

Nicklaus had been anything but impressive until his decisive triumph last week and may be ready to attack the Aurora County Club's tight 6,611-yard layout where par is 70.

In the first Cleveland Open in 1963, Nicklaus finished seventh while Arnold Palmer prevailed.

In 1964, Jack finished in a tie for third while the late Tony Lema topped Palmer in a play-off for the title.

Nicklaus skipped the '65 tourney, a move that drew criticism in these parts. He finished well back in the pack last year with a 278.

Nicklaus has had trouble before winning on Ohio courses. Even before turning to a lucrative career as a professional, Jack failed to win the Ohio Amateur, an event annexed twice by Palmer when the millionaire Pennsylvanian was in the Coast Guard stationed near here.

Still, based on the form he displayed at Baltusrol, Nicklaus has to be the man to beat. Stiff competition should come from Palmer, Billy Casper, Julius Boros, the tour's only three-tournament winner, and R.H. Sikes, last year's champion.

Nicklaus tuned up for first-round action with a nine-hole score of 34 in Wednesday's rain-curtailed pro-am event.

The rains washed out the event with half the field still on the course. The $5,000 prize money was divided equally among the 56 pros who played.

Members of the Sandbaggers are Dick Robbins, Gale Leatherwood, Jerry Kraus and Paul Francis. The Hackers are Herb Pettibone, Jake Bailey, Jerry Pritchard and Charles Hanes.

New York Mets Beat Phillies, 2-0

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Hire a big enough hall and you could assemble all of the 62 poor souls who've had the thankless task of pitching for the New York Mets during their 5½ adventurous seasons.

But the chairman of the meeting would have to be Jack Fisher, who's in his fourth season of that punishing job. Fisher had been at it longer than anybody else and for that he deserves to be chairman.

He hurled a brilliant two-hitter Wednesday night and beat Philadelphia 2-0 on an attack that consisted mainly of Tommy Davis getting plunked by Jim Bunning's pitches.

It was the best pitched game Cincinnati nipped Houston 3-2, Chicago dropped Pittsburgh 6-3, Atlanta battered San Francisco 9-2 and St. Louis shut out Los Angeles 2-0.

In the American League, Boston ripped New York 8-1, Baltimore shaded Kansas City 5-4, Chicago swept a doubleheader from Washington 5-2 and 2-1, and Minnesota battled Detroit to a 5-5 tie halted after eight innings by rain. Cleveland and California were rained out.

The only hits off Fisher were by rookie Gary Sutherland, who looped a leadoff double in the sixth and then singled in the eighth. Fisher struck out five and walked two in running his record to 5-7.

The Mets nipped Bunning for single runs in the first and third innings. Cleon Jones singled and stole second before Bunning hit Ed Kranepool and Davis in the first. Tom Reynolds' sacrifice fly delivered the run.

In the third, Davis was hit again, reached third on Rich Allen's error and then scored on a grounder.

Fisher, the workhorse of the Mets' staff, sailed through the first five innings. Sutherland's double and a pair of walks loaded the bases in the sixth but he escaped by getting Bill White on a grounder.

Like almost all their games, there was a touch of irony attached to the two-hitter for Fisher and the Mets. Sutherland, the only man to hit him safely, is the brother of a former Met pitcher.

Vada Pinson opened Cincinnati's ninth inning with a double and came around on a fly ball and a grounder for the Reds' winning run against Houston.

Pinson moved to third on Tony Perez' fly and scored on Lee May's bouncer. Perez and May accounted for Cincinnati's first two runs with solo homers. Jim Wynn hit his 17th for the Astros.

The Cubs moved into third place by beating the Pirates with Curt Simmons and Dick Radatz making an early four-run bulge stand up.

Simmons, 38, worked the first eight innings and Radatz set Pittsburgh down in the ninth as Chicago moved .001 ahead of San Francisco. Adolpho Phillips drove in two runs with a first inning single and John Boccabella chased two more across with a triple in the sixth.

Bob Uecker drove in five runs with a grand slam homer and a double as the Braves whacked the Giants.

Uecker's shot capped a seven-run Atlanta third that put it away for Pat Jarvis, who hurled a six-hitter. Denis Menke tagged three hits including a homer for the Braves.

Right-hander Ray Washburn and two relievers combined for a four-hitter as the Cardinals blanked the Dodgers and ended a four-game Los Angeles winning streak.

Washburn had allowed just three hits until the seventh when he stopped a line drive single by John Roseboro with his pitching hand. Joe Hoerner relieved and pitched out of a bases-loaded jam. He needed last-out help from Nelson Briles.

Washburn suffered a compound dislocation of his right thumb but X rays showed no fractures.

New York Mets Beat Phillies, 2-0

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Hire a big enough hall and you could assemble all of the 62 poor souls who've had the thankless task of pitching for the New York Mets during their 5 1/2 adventurous seasons.

But the chairman of the meeting would have to be Jack Fisher, who's in his fourth season of that punishing job. Fisher had been at it longer than anybody else and for that he deserves to be chairman.

He hurled a brilliant two-hitter Wednesday night and beat Philadelphia 2-0 on an attack that consisted mainly of Tommy Davis getting plunked by Jim Bunning's pitches.

It was the best pitched game Cincinnati nipped Houston 3-2, Chicago dropped Pittsburgh 6-3, Atlanta battered San Francisco 9-2 and St. Louis shut out Los Angeles 2-0.

In the American League, Boston ripped New York 8-1, Baltimore shaded Kansas City 5-4, Chicago swept a doubleheader from Washington 5-2 and 2-1.

and Minnesota battled Detroit to a 5-5 tie halted after eight innings by rain. Cleveland and California were rained out.

The only hits off Fisher were by rookie Gary Sutherland, who looped a leadoff double in the sixth and then singled in the eighth. Fisher struck out five and walked two in running his record to 5-7.

The Mets nipped Bunning for single runs in the first and third innings. Cleon Jones singled and stole second before Bunning hit Ed Kranepool and Davis in the first. Tom Reynolds' sacrifice fly delivered the run.

In the third, Davis was hit again, reached third on Rich Allen's error and then scored on a grounder.

Fisher, the workhorse of the Mets' staff, sailed through the first five innings. Sutherland's double and a pair of walks loaded the bases in the sixth but he escaped by getting Bill White on a grounder.

Like almost all their games, there was a touch of irony attached to the two-hitter for Fisher and the Mets. Sutherland, the only man to hit him safely, is the brother of a former Met pitcher.

Vada Pinson opened Cincinnati's ninth inning with a double and came around on a fly ball and a grounder for the Reds' winning run against Houston.

Pinson moved to third on Tony Perez' fly and scored on Lee May's bouncer. Perez and May accounted for Cincinnati's first two runs with solo homers. Jim Wynn hit his 17th for the Astros.

The Cubs moved into third place by beating the Pirates with Curt Simmons and Dick Radatz making an early four-run bulge stand up.

Simmons, 38, worked the first eight innings and Radatz set Pittsburgh down in the ninth as Chicago moved .001 ahead of San Francisco. Adolpho Phillips drove in two runs with a first inning single and John Boccabella chased two more across with a triple in the sixth.

Bob Uecker drove in five runs with a grand slam homer and a double as the Braves whacked the Giants.

Uecker's shot capped a seven-run Atlanta third that put it away for Pat Jarvis, who hurled a six-hitter. Denis Menke tagged three hits including a homer for the Braves.

Right-hander Ray Washburn and two relievers combined for a four-hitter as the Cardinals blanked the Dodgers and ended a four-game Los Angeles winning streak.

Washburn had allowed just three hits until the seventh when he stopped a line drive single by John Roseboro with his pitching hand. Joe Hoerner relieved and pitched out of a bases-loaded jam. He needed last-out help from Nelson Briles.

Washburn suffered a compound dislocation of his right thumb but X rays showed no fractures.

Letter To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE — We welcome letters to the editor. In order to be considered for publication, they must bear the correct name and address of the writer. Anonymous letters and those signed with the request that signatures be withheld will not be accepted for publication. Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writers and not necessarily those of The Herald.

Dear Editor:

It is time that the question be raised as to why the ad hoc special committee of City Council appointed to study the purchase of the Armory for a Neighborhood Recreation and Civic Center and Council itself have not taken "any steps whatsoever" to try to obtain the Armory.

At a meeting with the study committee, myself and the Center Citizen's Committee were asked to draw up a resolution for Council in which the City of Circleville could proceed with the application for the Federal grant, but without committing any of the city's resources until after Federal approval was given. This was done and the resolution was given to the study committee and the City Solicitor. On May 14th, this Resolution was not mentioned or acted upon at either the May 16th or June 6th meetings of City Council.

Although questions raised by the committee had been previously discussed and representatives for Ohio University's Institute for Regional Development have twice been to Circleville to talk with the committee and Council, no action other than a preliminary report has resulted.

In order to forestall any further loss of time, I prepared last week a Memorandum to the members of Council in which I explained:

1) that "the Resolution if passed does no more than authorize the gathering of information and processing of the grant. . . It in no way obligates the city."
2) that all questions previously had been answered, that authorization to proceed was necessary as only when some indication and willingness to proceed could it be reasonably expected for individuals and groups to become active in the work on the grant
3) that for the sake of time and discussion all questions previously posed would be again answered, after which a series of questions and answers were listed.

In the face of this Memorandum Council failed again Tuesday night as it had twice before to discuss and bring to a vote the Resolution. While previous delays have made it impossible to get a grant approved before the option expires June 30th, a grant should still be applied for so when the Armory is finally sold Circleville will be in a position to bid on it. I posed the following in my conclusion to the Memorandum: Is not the purpose of governments to serve the people? The Challenge then is to find a better or more worthwhile service than would be afforded the citizens of this community than by the Neighborhood Recreation and Civic Center.

Summer Opens With Storms, Wind for Ohio

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The opening hours of summer in Ohio Wednesday brought widespread thunderstorms, two reported tornadoes and one lightning death.

The rain continued overnight in many areas, with some areas getting about a half inch of rainfall.

A Hamilton man, Lawrence Bulack, reported that a twister lifted a barn and carried it 300 feet. The building was destroyed. The other tornado sighting was reported near Akron where a city water pumping station was damaged.

The Weather Bureau called both tornado reports unconfirmed.

The lightning fatality occurred late Wednesday afternoon north of Kent. Henry Pemberton Sr., 52, of Akron was struck while standing on a green at the Oak Knoll Golf Course.

In Cleveland, about 200 homes were without power for five hours because of lightning damage to electrical facilities.

A violent wind and rainstorm hit Celina - St. Marys area Wednesday afternoon, bringing almost a half inch of rain in a half hour and knocking down some trees and power lines. Wind gusts up to 50 miles

Two Doctors Named in $75,000 Suit

Two Circleville doctors have been named defendants in separate law suits filed by Joseph L. Speakman and his wife, Shirley Speakman.

The combined sum of money sought for damages from Dr. Robert G. Smith and Dr. Frank Moore is $75,000.

According to the petitions which were filed on behalf of Mr. and Mrs. Speakman by George Tyack, a Columbus attorney, alleged negligence of the doctors caused the death of their son, June 26, 1966. He was born June 25, 1966.

The petition states the doctors attempted an instrument delivery when they knew by study of X-rays that a Caesarean operation would be necessary.

IN HER suit, Mrs. Speakman is asking $25,000 for payment of damages sustained by herself as a result of the alleged incident. As administrator of the estate of his deceased infant son, Mr. Speakman is seeking $50,000 from the doctors.

According to the petition, Dr. Moore provided Mrs. Speakman with prenatal care. Dr. Smith was called as a consultant and a specialist to deliver the infant.

Area Girls Elected at Girls' State

Diana Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel P. Foster, Knollwood Village, and Donna Berry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Berry, Ashville, have been elected to the mythical House of Representatives at Buckeye Girls' State.

Miss Foster resides in the mythical city of James in Lawrence County and Miss Berry resides in the city of Hobart, also in Lawrence County.

Both represent the Federated Party in the mock government meetings.

Diana will be a senior next fall at Circleville High School where she is active in cheerleading, National Honor Society, English Merit Society and the Girls' Athletic Assn.

Donna will be a member of the senior class of Teays Valley High School in September. She is a member of the marching band, Future Teachers of America, the school newspaper staff, and the National Honor Society. The 1967 session of Buckeye Girls' State ends this Saturday.

Ohio Legislature

Localized Mental Care Bill Now before House

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A major bill to take the mental patient out of distant mental hospitals and put him in a friendlier environment closer to home was up for a vote today in the Ohio House.

The measure would authorize state-subsidized mental health and retardation centers which also would receive federal funds during the first five years of operation.

Martin A. Janis, director of the Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction, requested the measure which he said would give Ohio a "new thrust" in treatment of the mentally ill and retarded. The bill also has backing of the Ohio Mental Health Association and other groups active in the field.

Its general purpose would be to establish local centers throughout the state. County commissioners would be given authority over mental health programs and facilities and could appropriate funds for that purpose.

The House passed five bills during a prolonged floor session Wednesday, including an emergency measure by Sen. Michael J. Maloney R-7 Cincinnati to permit counties — subject to voter approval — to adopt alternative forms of government.

Maloney said the measure was requested by Hamilton County commissioners but that it also would be available to any county desiring changes.

Federated Chain Enters Discount Store Business

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Federated Department Stores, Inc., largest department store chain in the United States, is entering the discount department store field and has picked Columbus, Ohio, as its test market.

Federated Chairman Fred Lazarus Jr. announced here Wednesday that his firm is making the move because of "the continuing solid growth of discounting" and the basic appeal of mass merchandising, hours and convenience to customers.

The Columbus prototype store will be opened in May 1968, Lazarus said.

1) that "the Resolution if passed does no more than authorize the gathering of information and processing of the grant. . . It in no way obligates the city." 2) that all questions previously had been answered, that authorization to proceed was necessary as only when some indication and willingness to proceed could it be reasonably expected for individuals and groups to become active in the work on the grant 3) that for the sake of time and discussion all questions previously posed would be again answered, after which a series of questions and answers were listed.

In the face of this Memorandum Council failed again Tuesday night as it had twice before to discuss and bring to a vote the Resolution. While previous delays have made it impossible to get a grant approved before the option expires June 30th, a grant should still be applied for so when the Armory is finally sold Circleville will be in a position to bid on it. I posed the following in my conclusion to the Memorandum: Is not the purpose of governments to serve the people? The Challenge then is to find a better or more worthwhile service than would be afforded the citizens of this community than by the Neighborhood Recreation and Civic Center.

Summer Opens With Storms, Wind for Ohio

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The opening hours of summer in Ohio Wednesday brought widespread thunderstorms, two reported tornadoes and one lightning death.

The rain continued overnight in many areas, with some areas getting about a half inch of rainfall.

A Hamilton man, Lawrence Bulack, reported that a twister lifted a barn and carried it 500 feet. The building was destroyed. The other tornado sighting was reported near Akron where a city water pumping station was damaged.

The Weather Bureau called both tornado reports unconfirmed.

The lightning fatality occurred late Wednesday afternoon north of Kent. Henry Pemberton Sr., 52, of Akron was struck while standing on a green at the Oak Knoll Golf Course.

In Cleveland, about 200 homes were without power for five hours because of lightning damage to electrical facilities.

A violent wind and rainstorm hit Celina - St. Marys area Wednesday afternoon, bringing almost a half inch of rain in a half hour and knocking down some trees and power lines. Wind gusts up to 50 miles

Two Doctors Named in $75,000 Suit

Two Circleville doctors have been named defendants in separate law suits filed by Joseph L. Speakman and his wife, Shirley Speakman.

The combined sum of money sought for damages from Dr. Robert G. Smith and Dr. Frank Moore is $75,000.

According to the petitions which were filed on behalf of Mr. and Mrs. Speakman by George Tyack, a Columbus attorney, alleged negligence of the doctors caused the death of their son, June 26, 1966. He was born June 25, 1966.

The petition states the doctors attempted an instrument delivery when they knew by study of X-rays that a Caesarian operation would be necessary.

IN HER suit, Mrs. Speakman is asking $25,000 for payment of damages sustained by herself as a result of the alleged incident. As administrator of the estate of his deceased infant son, Mr. Speakman is seeking $50,000 from the doctors.

According to the petition, Dr. Moore provided Mrs. Speakman with prenatal care. Dr. Smith was called as a consultant and a specialist to deliver the infant.

Ohio Legislature

Localized Mental Care Bill Now before House

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A major bill to take the mental patient out of distant mental hospitals and put him in a friendlier environment closer to home was up for a vote today in the Ohio House.

The measure would authorize state-subsidized mental health and retardation centers which also would receive federal funds during the first five years of operation.

Martin A. Janis, director of the Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction, requested the measure which he said would give Ohio a "new thrust" in treatment of the mentally ill and retarded. The bill also has backing of the Ohio Mental Health Association and other groups active in the field.

Its general purpose would be to establish local centers throughout the state. County commissioners would be given authority over mental health programs and facilities and could appropriate funds for that purpose.

The House passed five bills during a prolonged floor session Wednesday, including an emergency measure by Sen. Michael J. Maloney R-7 Cincinnati to permit counties — subject to voter approval — to adopt alternative forms of government.

Maloney said the measure was requested by Hamilton County commissioners but that it also would be available to any county desiring changes.

Federated Chain Enters Discount Store Business

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—Federated Department Stores, Inc., largest department store chain in the United States, is entering the discount department store field and has picked Columbus, Ohio, as its test market.

Federated Chairman Fred Lazarus Jr. announced here Wednesday that his firm is making the move because of "the continuing solid growth of discounting" and the basic appeal of mass merchandising, hours and convenience to customers.

The Columbus prototype store will be opened in May 1968, Lazarus said.

LE Students Attend MU Workshop

Lorna Poling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Poling, Route 4, moved into Reid Hall on the Miami University Campus earlier this week for the Miami Music Workshop. She is a student at Logan Elm High School.

LORNA POLING

The workshop, under the direction of Nicholas Poccia, marching and concert band director at Miami, is conducted by regular University faculty members. High school students, who participate, are given an opportunity to play in the workshop band or orchestra or to sing with the chorus. Private lessons are offered for both voice and instrumental students as well as classes in theory.

While each student has a busy schedule of practice during the day, each evening of the two-week period has been set aside for planned recreation, to include such things as swimming parties, dances and hay rides. Those attending the workshop will also be given an opportunity to hear Jennie Turell, well known mezzo soprano, in a concert at the university during their stay there.

All performing groups in the workshop will present a combined concert at Benton Hall on this Sunday afternoon, June 25. Miss Poling, a soprano, will sing with the chorus as well as play French horn in the band. This is her second year at the workshop.
